Princetonians Holding Nostalgia Sessions to Recall Bygone Days

Ever hear of Baker Street in Princeton? Did you know that steam engines used to huff and puff to the freight station off University Place, keeping undergraduates awake? Were you here when Teddy Roosevelt declaimed from the balcony of the old Nassau Inn?

Princeton's past has come to a lively present in the last four years, thanks to the zeal, energy and imagination of a man who has only been in town since 1946—that's the year he was born.

Rick Endersby's Princeton History Project has taken a new turn with his launching of "Townpeople," a twice-monthly gathering of anybody who wants to come and talk about the way Princeton used to be.

The first "Townpeople" meeting was held Thursday in the Princeton Public Library meeting room. All gatherings will be there, and the next one is Thursday, December 12, at 3:15.

Incidentally, this is not solely a group for elderly residents although their rich store of memory is the foundation-stone. After all, if you're 38 years old and have lived here all your life, you remember a lot about "the way it used to be!"

Let's clear up Baker Street before we go any farther. The way people tell it, Baker Street ran beside the old upper Pyne Building at 72 Nassau Street and behind Nill's Bakery. You went along the street behind the bakery to pick up baked goods and so it was "Baker Street."

"What kind of noises were there in Princeton?" Mr. Endersby asked Thursday's guests.

Sleigh-bells and horses' hoots...the air-horn on the old trolley...cannons shot off by exuberant undergraduates at exam time (called Polars' Recess)...the yacht in the canal that sent off a siren, and because nobody in Princeton had ever heard a siren before, the men grabbed their guns and went to see what was the matter...and those steam freight engines chuffing into a weary student's slumber.

"Does it have a balcony?" asked Carl Erdman on Thursday, looking at a slide of the old Nassau Inn, projected for identification. "If it does, it's the old Nassau Inn. I listened to T.R. speak from that balcony and my father did, too, and we used to watch the High Hat Parade—no, it was different from the St. Patrick's Day parade—from that balcony."

In this view of Nassau, taken from an unidentified height in an unidentified year, "It's all country-side, north of Wiggins," Mr. Endersby points out.

"I remember the First National Bank had a flagpole," contributes Mrs. Grace Brown Harris, "and my father, he was in Hook and Ladder, used to spray a jet of water right over the flagpole."

"The Branch Building on Witherspoon—a bad fire there, in 1908. My dad was a fireman."

"Somebody remembers that Princeton's first movie was shown in the Branch Building "...and didn't they have vaudeville there, too?"

Mrs. Harris is one of a cadre of older residents with memories as sharp as old cut glass. Mr. Erdman is another. There is Alexander ("Ting") Taylor who lives at 272 Witherspoon Street in the house his family built. He told Townspeople on Thursday that he used to lead the ponies when the circus came to town, and his other memories of the role that black families played in Princeton are priceless treasures of social history.

Mrs. Harris' father, Harry Brown, was one of Princeton's first licensed electricians. He and William Sinclair once owned Rowland's stationery store, the direct ancestor of Hinkson's. Many Brown family pictures have been donated to the Endersby project by Mrs. Harris.

Alice C. Margerum recalled on Thursday another stationery store: Van Marter's that eventually became Zinder's. Miss Margerum said her grandfather made cigars by hand, presumably from Cuban tobacco.

That was after Mr. Endersby asked, "What occupations were there that don't exist any more?"

"...and besides making cigars, my grandfather was the town lamp-lighter," she added.

Declining Enrollment May Force Dismissal Of Some Teachers and Staff at All Schools

Prodded by the audience at Tuesday night's school board meeting, board president Winthrop Pike confirmed rumors that some 20 PHS teachers may be dismissed next year because of reduced enrollment. Other schools will have similar cuts, and so will administration and services, Mr. Pike said.

The state-aid for schools situation is so fluid that the school board has given up its usual formal budget brochure, and instead will send around a newsletter to the public when figures are "reasonably certain," said finance chairman Philip Cruickshank.

Parents in the audience wanted to know what board priorities are and where budget cuts may be made. William Bux, head of the P R E A (teacher's organization), said the P R E A planned to gather data for an "alternative" to Superintendent Philip E. McPherson's proposal of last week for staff parings.

"Staff cuts are almost inevitable with declining enrollment," Mr. Pike told him.

"You should consult the consumers—the parents and taxpayers—on priorities for the schools, not just your own finance committee and the P R E A," demanded Mrs. Rosalind Frisch.

In the end, Dr. Cruickshank asked townspeople to write the school board (Box 711, Princeton) with ideas. "A town-meeting kind of thing would simply bog us down," he observed.

Won't Run Again. Dr. Cruickshank then announced that he would not run again for the school board. He served a partial (two-year) term and was then elected in 1972 to a three-year term.

"The job is frustrating," he confessed, "although it has its rewards. Most of the things I wanted to see for the schools, have not been attained, and there have been changes that detract from the overall quality of education in my opinion. Can one voluntarily submit to this continuing frustration? But I strongly encourage others to run."

As expected, the Learning Community at Princeton High learned that it cannot expect the four-year commitment and evaluation it had requested. Superintendent McPherson, PHS Principal George Petrillo and the board agree that it's neither desirable nor possible to make such a long-range commitment.

Reading Dr. McPherson's statement for him because illness kept the Superintendent at home, business manager Ronald Novak said Mr. Petrillo will work closely with Learning Community parents, staff and students, evaluating the program in the light of budget, staff and program planning.

Mr. Pike added that one school board—this one—cannot commit other boards that may be functioning in the next four years, anyway. Earlier, Mr. Pike said during the budget discussion, that programs with few students and many teachers are vulnerable.

Repair PHS? The board, rubbing its wounds from the PHS referendum defeat, has begun to come back. Mrs. Hannah Fox, Planning Chairman, said the board is looking at a five-year plan to repair the high school. Sale of the Stony Brook Administration building is closely linked, financially, to such planning, she said.

Anybody with ideas on a board personnel policy is invited to write the board. The policy was tabled for action December 17. Copies of the proposals are available in the Valley Road administrative offices. Basically, they continue board policy of keeping personnel matters out of public discussion, whether "public" is a meeting, the supermarket or newspaper columns.

The superintendent was directed to prepare procedures for defining goals, and as a start, to tell the board what's going on now, in K-eighth-grade curriculum.

nor had a sidewalk, damaged by a snow-plow, been repaired.

Committeeman Abbot Low Moffat and Mrs. Smoyer assured Mr. Cifelli that a bikeway campaign would get under way, educating cyclists to ride on paths, not in streets.

Action on the assessments was recessed until December 3 because Mr. Hodak's computations differed from those of Administrator Joseph R. Nini.

NOTICE

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, the deadline for display advertising for the next issue of TOWN TOPICS will be Friday at 5. Classified advertising will be accepted until Monday at 5. News stories and pictures should be submitted as early as possible.

Regarding possible construction of two segments of the Loop Road (Terhune), Mr. Nini reported that the capital budget sub-committee has reconsidered, and still thinks the two segments should be in the 1975 capital budget. He is chairman of the sub-committee.

Citizen criticism has been directed toward the Loop Road concept, he explained. It's up to the Planning Board to decide whether the Loop Road idea is still valid. He suggested citizens take their protests to the board.

Committee granted IDA cancellation of its performance bond, providing a $6,000 maintenance bond right of way next to his house, remains for IDA's new construction. Mr. Hodak pointed out this was the first time the Township has been involved in a performance bond for interior, site improvements. Committeeman William Sutphin wanted culvert plans filed with the county engineer, as a way of assuring county responsibility, before the performance bond was released, but Mr. Hodak explained that the facilities weren't involved with a public street.

FUND AT 55 PERCENT

Contributions Urgently Needed. With the total reaching 54.5 percent of goal in the 1974 Princeton Area United Fund-Red Cross Campaign, Chairman Fred Fields said that he hopes every volunteer will continue to bring reports into the office as soon as possible. He also encouraged all who have not yet contributed to send their gifts to the Campaign office, P.O. Box 201, 221 Witherspoon Street, Princeton, New Jersey.

Leading all campaign divisions again is the University Division under its chairman, Dr. John Marks, with 62.7 percent of goal achieved. Other divisions following closely are the Research and Industry Division, codirected by Dr. Aleck Borman and Harris Barnett, with 60.5 percent; and the Special Gifts Division, headed by Audrey Short, with 55.8 percent. Mr. Fields said that returns are coming in slowly from the other divisions including the Mercantile, Education, Professional, Neighborhood, Banks and Building Trades and added that if contributions could be accelerated in these divisions, our campaign could be over 65 percent of its goal.

Mr. Fields said that he expects by Friday of this week, the campaign will reach 65 percent of its goal. He thanked everyone who has given in behalf of the Fund's 22 beneficiary agencies and the volunteer leadership of the drive.

A sophisticated mouse from the city stopped in the other day, looked down his long whiskery nose, and remarked how surprised he was that we hadn't gotten any bigger thru the years. Well, he was right. We haven't changed very much, in size anyway.

I guess if we'd really tried we could've become one of the tycoons in our business, like Neiman Mouse, Abercrombie and Mouse, even Bloomingmouse. But somehow it doesn't sound right. We weren't cut out to be one of the big cheeses I guess.

We really love it here in our cozy little shop. We love to putter around with all those wonderful scented candles, delightful cards and gifts, see our friends when they drop in.

That reminds me. You've got to stop in once in a while. We like being small. not poor.

Nostalgia Sessions

Can You Identify This? Mr. Endersby showed several slides of old photographs of someone in the shop in Jugtown (Harrison and Nassau), and across the street was a woman who raised yeast and sold bread to women who baked their own bread. Behind the place where Judy's Florist was, there was a tannery, and a cooper made barrels—by hand, of course. When Miss Margerum also recalled a carriage shop, Mr. Endersby father had not yet been born—reminded everyone of a carriage shop on Alexander. But blacksmiths were the most vivid memories of trades that have faded from view. Edmy father's older brother, was Joyce, the blacksmith, was on a carpenter. He used to sell "Frog Hollow," and another was—maybe on Jackson Street? That's the street now. But other groups remain in part of Avalon-Wiggins. Mrs. Ida M. Veigh, now living at 270 Lytle, was recalled as the widow of Princeton's last blacksmith. Blacksmiths mean horses, and Princeton's stable-owners are also part of a vanished world of commerce. "My father had a John Street stable," said Mrs. Laura Bergen Hill, and people did remember Bergen Alley, and Mr. Endersby showed a wintry slide of a cocky Harvey V. Bergen driving a sleigh. Yes, that was the man, all right; you could tell because he always had a cigarette in his mouth, and the smoke partially covers his face in the photograph.

Princeton Model School—that's the predecessor of the high school.

Incidentally, if you have pictures like these in your family album, Mr. Endersby would love to borrow them. He'll have them reproduced, and then will carefully return them to your family files. Old school pictures bring to mind the Cedar Grove School reunion held last month in the former schoolhouse on what's now The Great Road. Mrs. R. Robert Herling, who now lives in the "school," has given Mr. Endersby the old school books she found when she moved in.

One of the students at the Cedar Grove schoolhouse was G. Vinton Duffield. He and Mrs. Duffield, the former Margaret Drake whose family lent its name to Drake's Corner Road, will celebrate this Thursday their 60th wedding anniversary. Both were Townspeople at the meeting last week. Mr. Duffield had identified all but three people in a 1904 photograph taken at the school.

Helpful Graffiti. When Mr. Endersby showed a slide of the Mt. Lucas School, Miss Henderson pointed to graffiti on the side—the numbers "04" were clearly visible in faded paint. Mr. Erdman said those were the shenanigans of University freshmen and sophomores, painting their class numerals on any surface that came to hand. Mr. Endersby grinned and said he was thankful for the graffiti: they dated the picture beautifully.

Old buildings turn to new uses, like that school. The 4 Mercer Street building, where TOWN TOPICS now is, used to be Priest's, where they made "the best milk shakes in town," and where you could buy penny candy. The big, high-hipped old building was on Nassau Street, and was moved 60 feet back to its present location. According to one legend, someone put a glass of water on a table while the building was moving and not a drop of water spilled.

Elsewhere in what we now know as the Central Business District, owners and uses changed, too. The family of Benjamin Kahn had a dairy around 1911-12 where the Chinese restaurant now is on Witherspoon... Charlie Lee had his Chinese laundry where the Cummins Shop is. If your laundry wasn't ready yet, you took a collar out of a box and borrowed it.

Many of the old photographs, especially those of family groups, were taken by a man named Charlie Silvester.

"There are several Princeton High kids working with me on this project, and do you know that one of them, a senior, is Jay Silvester, who is old Squire Silvester's great-grandson!"

Jay was at Thursday's gathering, inviting everyone to show up Wednesday af-

THAT'S HUCK FINN ON THE RIGHT: Well, not quite. But it might as well be. In this old photograph, straight out of Mark Twain, a group of Princeton boys—and aren't there two girls, too?—rest a minute from blueberry picking. If you can identify anyone in the picture, or if you know where and when it was taken, Rick Endersby would like to know.

ternoons at the Historical Society and examine his great-grandfather's pictures.

Individual Research. Students working with Mr. Endersby (affiliated, in many cases with the high school's Learning Community) told the gathering that they have special projects of their own, and would like some help.

Dominic Nogare, for example, is researching the Charlton-William Street area because his grandmother, Rose Boyd, of 15 Charlton, has lived there for the past 50 years.

Chris and Kathy Phillips want old dress patterns so they can make faithful copies of the fragile old hombazines of long ago. They would also like old hats. Other people have projects, too. Jessica Myers is collecting old Princeton recipes and already has about 100. Mrs. Harris has given her a Centennial Cake, and recipes—"rules" they were sometimes called—for taffy pulled at Methodist Church taffy-pulls. Mrs. Myers hopes to publish this cookbook next year, with personal information about each inventive cook.

And Mr. Endersby always has new projects cooking. He wants to start "The Princeton Recollector," a periodical on local history. When Mrs. Harris described, on Thursday, the marble slab over the door of the old Methodist Church, and the records found there when the old building was razed to make way for the "new" one in 1912, she described andirons made from the old Methodist fence. Mr. Endersby hopes he can unearth some of those old andirons, perhaps in an old barn?

Long range, his plans are linked to those of Mrs. Ruth Randall, social studies coordinator for the Princeton Regional Schools. Together, they're working on "Changing Princeton: A Community Curriculum."

"We talk all the time about what we should do for older people. But there is so much older people can do for US. All I do, is provide a willing ear."

Come December 12. It will be a Christmas party. Bring your recollections of Princeton Past, with candle-lit trees, popcorn balls and sleigh-rides. And...the grandchildren are invited, too!

LIBRARY IN TROUBLE

Suffers First Deficit. Rising costs and increasingly heavy use of facilities have placed great pressure on the Princeton Public Library, causing a budget deficit for the first time, Mrs. Arnold I. Dumey, outgoing president of the Friends of the Library announced at the annual meeting held Sunday. She urged all those interested in the future of the Library to attend the budget meeting to be held on Thursday at 8 p.m. at Borough Hall.

Over 80 people attended the brunch when new officers and board members for the coming year were installed. They are: Mrs. Gordon Griffin, president; Mrs. Tristram B. Johnson, vice-president; Mrs. Alfred Hoyt and Mrs. C. Learned Colt, co-treasurers; A. Eugene Frank, finance chairman and Mrs. Henry Martin, chairman of the hospitality committee. Other members of the Council will continue in office.

Mrs. Dumey also announced memorial gifts in the name of the late Mrs. Bernard Barenholtz, one of the Founders and long-term member of the Friends. The $450 in donations have enabled the Friends to buy five children's films and two books, one on American quilts and another on American folk sculpture, for the Library, as well as decorations for the Children's library section.

Dr. John Wheeler, Joseph Henry professor of Physics at the University, was the principal speaker at the meeting. Speaking on the "American Public Library: Accomplishments of the Past and Hopes for the Future", Dr. Wheeler said that during the Library's recent re-registration drive, 11,500 persons took out library cards or nearly 45 percent of the community.

He pointed to the registration figures as an indication of the importance of the library to this area. He emphasized that Princeton.

with a relatively small population, rates sixth in community book circulation in the state, or just below five much larger cities. The average number of books borrowed state-wide, said Dr. Wheeler, is 5 per person per year, while the figure for Princeton is 12.

Membership in the Friends of the Princeton Public Library is open to all interested in increasing the scope of the Library and its services. Membership dues begin at $2 and blanks may be picked up at the Library.

HOME IS RANSACKED

On Brookstone Drive. The home of Carl E. Martinson, 8 Brookstone Drive, was entered early last week and ransacked.

Taken were a 5-piece silver set and other silver pieces from a dining room cabinet and a suitcase from a closet. Mr. Martinson's desk was ransacked and papers strewn on the floor. Police report that the house was completely ransacked.

Entry was gained through a front service entrance, where a screen door was forced. Det. Frank Doccantuso is investigating.

Color TV Stolen. A color television set valued at $400 and $80 in cash were stolen last week between 6:15 and 8 p.m. from a Witherspoon Street home.

A pane of glass in the front door was broken to get inside. Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm investigated.

APPLIANCES STOLEN

From Queenston Building. A refrigerator, dryer and garbage disposal unit with a combined value of $685 were stolen this month from a building in Queenston Common.

Ellis Wolf, foreman for the Sandean Construction Company, builder of the condominium on Hamilton and Harrison streets, told police that the building had been locked and there were no signs of forced entry.

Between 2:30 and 3 Friday afternoon, a tray of silver rings valued at $400 was stolen from a display case at the Princeton University store.

In another campus theft, a 10K gold ring valued at $35, a $50 silver ring, a silver

Income Tax Favored

"There isn't a 'no-tax-increase' option any more," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week, announcing that he and Township Mayor Jay Bleiman have written to Governor Brendan Byrne declaring their support for a state income-tax.

"A statewide property-tax would be a disaster," Mayor Cawley said. "We'll have less school aid here, anyway, and a property tax on top of that would be devastating."

"We hope to start a little brush-fire of support for an income-tax," he added. "It's obvious that the state needs major additional taxes, and we're convinced an income-tax is the best way."

bracelet ($20), portable radio ($25), $7.50 in cash and a checkbook were stolen from a room in Walker Hall.

Sgt. Thomas Michaud reported that the intruder gained entry through an unlocked window.

And More. Other campus thefts reported by Borough police: $58 taken from a room in Spelman Hall, no forced entry; jewelry and stereo set from a room in Pyne Hall, entry through an unlocked window; $225 pocket calculator and $118 tape recorder from a room in 1901 Hall, a window broken to gain entry; and money, cigarettes and slide pictures from another room in Pyne Hall, entry via broken window pane. All the thefts took place between Wednesday and Saturday.

A fifth-floor room at the Nassau Inn was entered between 7 and 9:05 Monday evening and taken were a pair of binoculars and digital calculator. Total value: $199. There was no sign of forced entry, police said.

Construction Site Theft. Township police list several thefts last week at the IDA construction site off Terhune Road.

Robert McCloskey of Chestnut Street, a carpenter for Mahoney-Troast Construction Company of Clifton, making an inspection of the site Saturday morning, discovered three locks broken on trailers parked at the site.

A check revealed that apparently nothing was taken from two trailers, but Robert Frascella of Wright Electric, Trenton, reported the theft of seven lighting fixtures valued at $350. A lock had been snapped off the side of the trailer, he told police.

Edward Funston of Swartz & Funston, Pennsauken, told police that 20 gallons of gas had been drained from a loader and mixer at the site and two gallons from a cement mixer. He placed the loss at $9.

PURSES STOLEN

In Separate Thefts. Unattended pocketbooks and wallets continue to be a favorite target of thieves in the area.

Julia Andrews of Mercerville last week placed her pocketbook containing two wallets on a desk at the Citgo Station in the Princeton Shopping Center while she went to the rest room. When she returned the pocketbook was gone. She lost $48. It was found the next day near the desk but the money was missing.

While Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Paynter, were in their living room Saturday at 5 at 49 Wilson Road, they heard the front door open and close. Investigating, they found that an intruder had taken Mrs. Paynter's purse from atop a table in the foyer.

Police said it contained a small amount of change, credit cards and a Greek coin imprinted with an owl.

Three Princeton University students were the victims of a thief who entered their unlocked van which they had left between 12:45 and 2 p.m.

Saturday in Marquand Park. One lost $30 from her pocketbook, a second a $275 pay check from her wallet and a third $4 from his wallet. Police said the rifled wallets were left behind on the van's front seat.

WOMAN ASSAULTED
In East Pyne Hallway. A young woman who is a Princeton University student was assaulted Friday evening in a second floor hallway of East Pyne Hall by an assailant who escaped.

The attack took place shortly after 7, police said. The assailant came up from behind the student, who, despite being ordered to keep quiet, screamed. Her attacker ripped open the front of her dress and pushed her down the hall. She sustained abrasions of the face and neck when he scratched her with a sharp instrument before fleeing. The victim was taken to the University Infirmary.

Detectives Timothy Huizing and Ronald Holliday and Patrolmen Victor Fasanella and Peter Hanley are continuing the investigation in cooperation with university proctors.

The suspect was described as white, approximately 20 years old, 5-10 to 11, medium build, with long wavy dark hair over his ears. At the time of the attack, he was wearing an old pair of faded blue jeans and a white, bulky knit turtleneck sweater. Police added he had a heavy, "5-o'clock" beard.

Proctors report that the description fits that of a man who exposed himself to the victim while she was delivering papers in

BOMB HOAX CALLS

Choir College Is Target. Borough police were kept busy last week answering three separate bomb threat calls directed at Westminster Choir College.

The latest came Monday afternoon at 3:40 when a male voice said, "Bomb in business office in 17 minutes." Six patrolmen responded, ordered the building evacuated and conducted a search. No bomb was found.

Earlier in the week, a voice, described by police as that of a young girl, twice called the college. The first last Tuesday at 12:42 reported that a time bomb in the Library would go off at ten to one. Three cars responded but police found no bomb. The library was evacuated.

Again on Thursday at 12:38 the caller ordered, "Get everyone out of the new dorms. A bomb will go off at 1:15!" Three dorms were emptied while seven patrolmen searched the buildings but found nothing.

FOUR ARE INJURED

In Intersection Crash. Two drivers and two passengers were all treated at Princeton Medical Center Thursday morning for injuries they received following the collision of two cars at the intersection of N. Harrison and Hamilton Avenue.

James Todd, 78, 31 Leigh Avenue, one of the drivers, sustained a contusion of the forehead, while his passenger, Elizabeth Williams, 71, 29

Weather for the Thanksgiving holiday? A bit too early to forecast, the Man says, but he notes that long-range expectations for the next 30 days anticipate both temperature and precipitation to run somewhat above normal.

For the immediate future, Friday showers are a possibility, followed by a partially sunny weekend. The thermometer range should run from near freezing overnight to about 50 during daylight hours.

Leigh Avenue, was treated for an injury to her knee.

The second driver, Alva C. Virgies, 31 of Trenton, complained of a pain in the chest and left arm. His passenger, Aubrey C. Coates, 32, of Trenton, complained of a head pain.

The accident was witnessed by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino. He ticketed Mr. Todd for failing to observe the red light on Hamilton and continuing into the intersection, where his car struck the left side of the Virgies car. The entire side of the latter was pushed in, police said.

DRIVER KILLED, 3 HURT

As Car Skids, Breaks Up. A Princeton youth was killed last Wednesday night as the car he was driving skidded 200 feet on Route 518 in Montgomery Township, crashed into a utility pole and broke into several pieces. All three passengers were injured, but none critically.

The driver, Richard Hall, 19, of 118 Leigh Avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Princeton Medical Center.

The mishap occurred about one and a half miles west of Route 206, approaching the S-curve over the bridge on 518, at 9:38 p.m. The car rolled

CLAREMONT?
Princeton's Bicen. "Sister."
The "Handshake Across the Nation Sub-Committee" of the Claremont (Calif.) Bicentennial Committee decided it would be great if Claremont and Princeton, N.J. had a Bicentennial "relationship."
The Claremont City Council endorsed the idea in July and, expressing mild astonishment, so did Princeton Township Committee this past Monday. Borough Council is expected to follow.
Claremont, founded in 1886, hasn't any Bicentennial history to celebrate. The town would like to relate to the Bicentennial in some way, and so the temporary alliance with Princeton was proposed.

The California community has a population like Princeton's—25,000—five undergraduate colleges, a graduate school, a school of theology, botanical gardens, institutes for specialized advanced study, plus the usual complement of public and independent schools.

The mayor of Claremont, Mrs. Bertye F. Smith, has written Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, and the chairman of the Claremont sub-committee, William B. Dunseth, came to Princeton to confer with Township Mayor Jay Bleiman.

Two Princeton residents who are alumni of Pomona College, in Claremont, have agreed to be liaison. They are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hearne, 116 Clover Lane.

over several times before hitting the pole, requiring police several hours to clear away the debris.

The injured passengers were Jeffery Smith, 38 Pardee Circle, and Keith Ragoonann, 116 Witherspoon Street, both 18; and Marion Stokes, 20, of the Northgate Apartments in East Windsor.

Smith was admitted to the hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises and released the next day. Ragoonann required treatment of torn ligaments and a crushed right calf. Stokes was treated for minor abrasions and released immediately.

Hall's parents, James and Daisy Hall, are both deceased. The youth lived with a cousin, Mrs. Barbara Hill, at the Leigh Avenue address. He is survived by a sister, Barbara Ann, and a brother, James.

THREE ON AGENDA

For Zoning Board. The Borough Zoning Board, meeting one week earlier because of the Thanksgiving holiday, will hear three applications Thursday evening in Borough Hall.

L. Richard McCluskey, owner of Ivy Inn, needs side, rear and bulk variances to construct a 2,600 square-foot addition on the rear of the former Getty Service Station, 248 Nassau Street. Ivy Inn is presently located at 254 Nassau.

John B. Redding Jr., will seek a conditional use authorization from the board to permit continued occupancy of the property at 35 Linden Lane as a three-family dwelling. It presently is approved for two-family use.

Mr. Redding needs a combined side-yard variance—30 feet is required, he has 22.8—and smaller side yard—15 is required, he has 5.75. Four off-street parking spaces will be provided by two existing rear garages.

The applicant has received favorable Site Plan Review and the Regional Planning Board has also recommended the conditional use be approved. The property is located in an R-4 zone.

To permit the occupancy of 18 Madison Street as one dwelling unit plus the rental of five rooms, W. James Masterton needs a favorable recommendation to Mayor and Council for a use variance.

Three of the proposed rental rooms are on the second floor, two on the third. The dwelling unit comprised the entire first floor. Mr. Masterton needs a use variance because the combined use does not meet the zoning ordinance's definition of a rooming house since the rented rooms are not part of the dwelling unit. Conversions to rooming houses are permitted as a conditional use in an R-4 zone, but the ordinance does not mention independent rentals.

The applicant needs one parking space for each rented room. Presently, two are provided by a rear garage.

Mr. Masterton has received conditional Site Plan Review. The condition: not more than two cars to be parked on the property. The Planning Board has also recommended the use variance be granted, but recommends the variance be granted for a temporary period of two years. It also would limit parking to two cars on the premises.

WOMEN IN AID SQUAD?

Case Is Heard. Admission of women to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad was laid before the state's Division of Civil Rights in a three-hour Trenton hearing on Tuesday, November 12.

A decision may be handed down by the first of the year, according to William Brennan III, attorney for the Squad.

The hearing officer, David Ben-Asher, listened to the reasons why the Squad has denied membership to 18-year-old Anna Lewis, 41 Fisher Avenue. Her case was presented by Judy Musicant, attorney with the state Attorney-General's office.

Both sides say they will appeal, so that a firm precedent in law can be established. The first step in appeal would be to file objections to Mr. Ben-Asher's decision with Vernon Potter, director of the Civil Rights Division, who would decide the issue for the Division. The case would then go to Appellate Division of Superior Court.

The Opposition. Mr. Brennan contended at the hearing that the Squad is a private, charitable organization over which the state has no jurisdiction. It is supported solely by private contributions, he said.

A Squad member is on duty from 7 p.m. through the night to 7 a.m. Township Police Lt. Richard Steiner had photographs which he said showed the close quarters of the Squad's Harrison Street Building. DeWitt Boice, Squad captain, presented drawings of the building's layout showing a bedroom with four bunks.

Miss Lewis' late father, architect George Lewis, designed the structure in 1962.

Commenting on Mr. Brennan's contention that the Squad building is not a place of public accommodation, Mr. Ben-Asher asked whether Mr. Brennan meant that the Squad could put up a sign saying "No blacks admitted." Mr. Brennan, who is Irish, smilingly replied "yes," adding that the Union League Club doesn't admit Irishmen.

David Cromwell, president of the Squad also testified. In reply to Ms. Musicant, he said the Squad did not receive money from state or municipal sources. A single grant of $2,000 was once given by the Mercer County Freeholders.

It is Ms. Musicant's contention that the Squad, even though it is financed privately, is in existence solely to perform a public function and is not a club formed for the pleasure of its members.

Shotgun Blasts Ill House
Township police are still investigating the firing of four shotgun blasts early last week into the side of the house of Timothy Peters, 44 Dodds Lane.

Chief Frederic Porter said that four 12 gauge Magnum shells were all fired from the same position, approximately 114 feet from the house shortly after 9 p.m. Each shell penetrated the house and interior wall, he said.

The shots were directed at the southeast side of the house near the front entrance. Police have recovered the four empty shell casings Chief Porter declined to give any possible reason for the shelling. Det. Norman Servis and Ptl. Mario Musso are investigating.

In the event of an unfavorable decision for Miss Lewis, it is the state attorney general's office that would carry the case to appeal.

TWO GIRLS CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Two 17-year-old girls, one from Kingston, one from the Township, have been charged by Township police with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana. They have been released to their parents, pending action by a Mercer County juvenile court.

The two were stopped last week on Stuart Road by Ptl. Mario Musso for an overdue inspection violation. Ptl. Musso detected an odor of marijuana and his investigation revealed that both girls had marijuana in their possession. Both, according to police, allegedly admitted smoking the drug.

They were brought to headquarters and charged.

Two Charges. Keith Ragoonanan, 18, 116 Witherspoon Street, was charged Monday with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana by Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm and with trespassing by Princeton High School.

He was arrested on Moore Street by Ptl. Wilhelm after he failed to heed repeated warnings by high school officials to stop loitering around the school auditorium. He is scheduled to appear in Borough court December 18.

EXPOSES HIMSELF

In Glare of Headlights. It was show time Monday evening at 8:17 at Nassau Street and Markham Road.

A Markham Road resident called police to report a man standing in front of his car with the headlights on and his trousers down. By the time police arrived, the suspect had fled in his car.

It was another in a series of open lewdness cases that have cropped up with increasing regularity on the police docket.

Inn. Police responded to a caller reporting a heavy concentration of smoke emerging from the chimney at the Inn leading from the large fireplace in the lobby. Police report the fire was confined to the chimney, although some smoke filtered into the building.

Leaf Fires. Firemen also responded to a pair of leaf fires later the same day.

One was reported on Stockton at 8:17, the second three minutes later on Boudinot. Both were large enough, police said, to require a fire truck to respond.

NINE ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Nine Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic court.

Elizabeth R. Schorske, 106 Winant Road, and Peter E. Beck, 73 Dempsey Avenue, were fined $20 and $30 for red light violations. Mr. Beck denied a second charge of failing to comply with an officer's signal and was found not guilty.

Michael A. Lise, 124 Spruce Street, and Seung Ho Lee, 149 Terhune Road, were fined $15 each for failing to head a stop sign, while Martin Musco and Chris Milly, both of Princeton Inn Dorm, paid $10 each for riding bicycles without lights.

Others: Stuart G. Hoover, 661 Mt. Lucas Road, $20, overdue inspection; Charles J. Deandrea, 1078 Kingston Terrace, $20, failure to yield the right of way; and Oscher Teitelbaum, 97 Mountain Avenue, not crossing in a crosswalk.

Mr. Teitelbaum pleaded not guilty, was found guilty and ordered to pay $10 court costs. Judge Carchman suspended the $10 fine.

Bike Lights Essential

Young or old, if you don't have a light on your bike when you ride at night, you'll be stopped by the Township Police. Chief Fred Porter warned this week that police will start enforcing the state and municipal laws related to night bike riding.

A child riding after dark without a light will be stopped, handed a Bicycle Violation Notice and told about the violation. The rider will get the original, the second copy will be filed in Township Hall and the third copy will go to the parents.

After three violations, the violator—and parents—will be summoned before the Juvenile Office. Adults will be issued Violation Notices, too, and the second offense will bring a summons.

be held in the Princeton area this Thursday to raise funds for famine relief abroad.

Students at Princeton University will sign up in advance to forego meals, and the money saved will be given to the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief, an international service organization active in village rehabilitation in Africa and elsewhere.

Others who wish to participate may send money they would have spent on their meals to the Princeton Peace Center, 163 Nassau St. Checks may be made out to OXFAM.

The fast is being coordinated by Ananda Marga, the Princeton Peace Center and Princeton Inn College. For more information, call 924-5315.

FOOD DRIVE PLANNED

To Benefit Crittenton Home. The Princeton Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home will conduct its 65th Thanksgiving food donation drive for the Home this Thursday through next Wednesday. Contributions of canned goods and other non-perishable foods are welcomed. Donations can be placed in containers to be found in the Acme, the A&P, Hill's Market and the Nassau Delicatessen.

Princeton Day School, St. Paul's School and Stuart Country Day School are also participating in the project. The Home has been serving the needs of unwed mothers for 79 years.

That Princeton University lineman with the hot line is Mark Wright, showing you how easy it is to be a telephone volunteer for "Telephone Reassurance," the free service offered to people who live alone by the Council of Community Services. Mr. Wright is a member of the Council's board of directors. "Telephone Reassurance" volunteers make a brief daily telephone call at a pre-arranged time to check on the safety of people who live alone. You and the person at the other end of the line agree on the time the call will be made.

As a volunteer, you can make your call in three minutes from your office desk, from the telephone in your kitchen, or even before you get out of bed in the morning.

Anyone in the Council's toll-free area can participate (Princeton, Griggstown, Kingston, Rocky Hill, Cranbury, Montgomery, Plainsboro, West Windsor and parts of Hopewell, Lawrence and South Brunswick). Call the Council, 924-5865, for more information, or write Council of Community Services, Box 201, Princeton.

72 Clover Lane, has been elected president of the American Research Center in Egypt, an association of universities, museums, and individuals headquartered in Princeton. The group sponsors research on the history and culture of Egypt from ancient to modern times.

Professor Berger is the University's Director of the Program in Near Eastern Studies, in addition to his tenure in the Sociology Department since 1952. He was chairman of the Department for the past three years. He is also a member of supports archaeological the Middle East panel of consultants to Nelson Rockefeller's Commission on Critical Choices for Americans, and was the first president of the Middle East Studies Association of North America.

A resident in Egypt for several years with his family, several of Professor Berger's studies have been translated into Arabic and published in Cairo and Beirut. Among his books on the Middle East are "The Arab World Today" and "Islam in Egypt Today."

Professor Berger succeeds Dr. John Wilson, an Egyptologist, as president of the Research Center. The Center years. He is also a member of supports archaeological projects and a fellowship program in Egypt with funds from the Smithsonian Institution and the U. S. Department of State, under an agreement with the Egyptian government. During the 1967 war, the Center was the only American cultural agency whose operations were not interrupted when Egypt broke off diplomatic relations with the U. S.

STORE DOOR SHATTERED

By Empty Beer Bottle. While patrolling the rear lot of the Princeton Shopping Center at 5:55 Sunday morning, Sgt. Michael Kopliner discovered that the window of the door of the American Sewing and Vacuum Store had been broken by an empty beer bottle lying at the foot of the door.

The force had caused the window to fragment inward for quite a distance. The owner was notified of the damage but police report there was no apparent entry.

CONTRIBUTIONS SOUGHT

In Plainsboro Fund Drive. The Plainsboro Rescue Squad, nearing its first anniversary of service, has designated November as its fund-raising month. Members will be calling on Plainsboro residents during the coming weeks to solicit donations.

The Rescue Squad has responded to 49 emergencies, 13 transportation calls, and one search and rescue during the past year. The squad has two ambulances and trained personnel on call 24 hours a day, while also supporting the Fire Company at all structural fires. The squad provides Plainsboro residents access to at-home medical

Buses Travel On

How does the Loop bus fare? Or, how do Loop bus fares fare? Pretty good, according to latest figures.

In the week ending last Friday, 820 passengers rode the busses (unofficial figures). This is 9.2 passengers per bus, per hour. The week of November 4-8, ridership was 672, or 74 more than the previous week, and those figures are official.

To date, 50 bus-ticket books have been sold at the bargain rate of $4 for 21 rides. You can now buy your book from any bus driver.

equipment on request, and also offers transportation to and from medical facilities.

The fund-raising is necessary to enable the squad to expand and update the present facilities and insure continued efficient service to the community.

GAS STATION CLOSED
For Tax Avoidance. The Internal Revenue Service filed notice of public tax lien in Mercer County Courthouse on Thursday, November 8, closing down Mulheron's Sunoco service station, 273 Nassau Street, effective immediately, for failure to pay federal employee withholding taxes.

The tax lien reveals that proprietor George Mulheron was delinquent in paying $40,000 in payroll taxes to IRS, stretching back to the third quarter of 1970, according to Collections Group Manager Dominick DeMaio. He said that Mr. Mulheron was unable to make payment when warned recently by the IRS, so the IRS seized the station in an effort to recover the delinquent amount by liquidating its assets.

IRS Sells Gas. The closing became publicly apparent by the new sign on the Sunoco station door. "Warning: U.S. Government Seizure: This property has been seized for nonpayment of Internal Revenue Taxes." It was also apparent by the appearance of two IRS revenue officers last Wednesday to assume temporary operation of the station until all the gasoline and other saleable items had been sold. IRS discount prices ranging from 42.9 to 50.9 cents per gallon attracted a steady volume of customers, liquidating Mulheron's supply by Tuesday, reported revenue officer James Russocki. His superior, Mr. DeMaio, commented, "I feel sure we'll recover all the money owed us".

Ownership of the station now reverts back to the Sun Oil Company, which had previously operated the station through a leasing agreement with Mr. Mulheron. Sun Oil's new plans for the station are not known, but it is clear that the IRS-sponsored return to the days of cheaper gasoline is over.

CONSUMER LAW SIGNED

Sponsored by Martindell. A bill sponsored by State Senator Anne C. Martindell of Princeton designed to protect New Jersey consumers from unscrupulous or careless creditors was signed into law last week by Governor Byrne. The new act, which will take effect on May 11, will prevent property from being seized for nonpayment of Internal Revenue Taxes." It was also apparent by the appearance of two IRS revenue officers last Wednesday to assume temporary operation of the station until all the gasoline and other saleable items had been sold. VICE-PRESIDENT NAMED

At E. R. Squibb. Herbert A. Bly of Lawrenceville has been elected a vice-president of E. R. Squibb & Sons, Inc. He will be responsible for worldwide pharmaceutical engineering and construction.

Mr. Bly joined Squibb in

Herbert A. Bly

1969 as manager of a task force responsible for engineering design and construction of Squibb's first bulk pharmaceutical manufacturing plant in Puerto Rico. Two years later, he was appointed overseas engineering and construction director, and, in 1974 was appointed worldwide engineering and construction director.

Born in Summit, Mr. Bly is a graduate of the University of Minnesota with degrees in Mechanical Engineering and Business Administration.

NOUVEAU BEAUJOLAIS

Nassau Liquors Has It. The wine counterpart of sweet apple cider in season is Nouveau Beaujolais and like cider, it is best drunk when young and fresh.

To insure absolute freshness, Bruce MacDiarmid, the enterprising owner of Nassau Liquors, 94 96 Nassau Street, has flown a shipment of Beaujolais Nouveau here by jet. Bottled in France on November 12, the Nouveau Beaujolais arrived in his store on Saturday, the 16th—the same time it is arriving in the restaurants in Paris, Mr. MacDiarmid said. "It is the same wine that Paris restaurants have been buying for years."

Mr. MacDiarmid flew to Paris to visit the vineyards and taste the Nouveau Beaujolais before it was even bottled. He met with Monsieur Schilling, director of Aujoux, and has arranged for a second shipment of the Nouveau Beaujolais by boat which will arrive at his store the end of the month.

Mr. MacDiarmid is understandably proud of his transaction. "It's the first Nouveau in the country," he said. He described it as "light, fresh and very fruity—the best yet in the four years Beaujolais Nouveau has come to America." He sold more than 40 cases of it on Saturday.

The Nouveau is very light and can be drunk with anything. When Mr. MacDiarmid held a bottle up to the window, its color was almost pink like a rose. The wine is virtually lifted off the grape skins into the mouth—without the usual aging that give a wine body.

The wine is best in November through February. The earlier the better, hence Mr. MacDiarmid's efforts to bring it here as soon as possible. After March it is no longer new or true Nouveau.

SYSTEMEDICS GROWS

Nine Month Net Up. Systemedics, Inc. has reported an unaudited 16 per cent increase in sales and 25 per cent growth in profits over the comparative nine month period last year. Sales for the nine months ended September 30 rose to $3,404,797 from $2,936,783, while net income increased to 17 cents from 14 cents per share. Both earnings figures include the benefit of an 8-cent tax loss carryforwards.

William Krause, President of Systemedics, stated that the rising trend of sales and profits is expected to continue throughout the rest of the year. The company also announced that its recently-acquired Bio-Dynamics Research Division had received a sub-contract from Arthur D. Little, Inc. valued at $100,000 over the next 18 months, to help complete a project for the Health Resources Administration of HEW.

NEW FIRM FORMED

By Tomlinson in Bay Head. Henry P. Tomlinson, formerly of Princeton, has announced formation of the real estate firm of Tomlinson & Earle at 524 Main Avenue, Bay Head. The firm will handle general real estate, as well as selected summer and year-round rentals.

Mr. Tomlinson has been a summer visitor to the shore area for more than 50 years, and now lives in Montoloking permanently. He is president of the Mantoloking Beach Association and is a governor and former commodore of the Mantoloking Yacht Club.

Fusion Device Protested.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
This is an open letter to Princeton University's trustees:
Please, please do not approve the construction of a $215 million nuclear fusion device in Plainsboro. I read in TOWN TOPICS (November 14, 1974) that the "largest Tokamak (a kind of nuclear furnace) in the world" is planned for the little town where I live, that "up to one gram...of radioactive tritium" will be stored here, and that "this amount will probably be buried at the completion of the experiment", and I am afraid.
Edward A. Frieman, associate director of the Plasma Physics Laboratory at the Forrestal campus, is quoted reassuring us that "the TCT will be a major national achievement and will mark an important step in the U.S. drive towards self-sufficiency."

Mr. Frieman, I notice, is also the director of a preliminary safety study prepared by the Plasma Physics Laboratory, aided by an Environmental Systems division of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, which is "co-designing" the Tokamak. As such, he informs us there will be "almost no environmental problems at all."
How can I believe him? The New York Times (November 10, 1974) states: "Atomic Energy Commission documents show that for at least the last ten years the commission had repeatedly sought to suppress studies by its own scientists that found nuclear reactors were more dangerous than officially acknowledged," and that "One key study, which the commission kept from the public for more than seven years, found that a major reactor accident-should one occur-could have effects equivalent to a 'good-sized weapon', killing up to 45,000 persons, and that 'the possible size of such a disaster might be equal to that of the state of Pennsylvania.'"

How long will it take to evaluate accurately the safety of an experimental Tokamak, and whose evaluation can I trust? Because this proposed project would increase the annual operating budget of the Plasma Physics Laboratory "probably $10 million," I doubt their safety assurances and am skeptical even of the proposed but unnamed "independent consultants."
If this sounds like an emotional plea, believe me, it is. I am reminded of that small town in the western part of this country where no one thought to question the wisdom of scientists who buried nuclear wastes in the area, until doctors noticed an abnormally high rate of cancer and birth defect in the local population. By that time, of course, it became difficult to sell houses and move. The very foundations of the houses were contaminated.

Time to Face the Problem
To the Editor of Town Topics:
When we were planning and developing the open space lands in Princeton about 15 years ago, we did discuss the attendant problems of policing and administration. However, we did not have either the open space holdings or the resources to do anything about it at the time.
It is clear that we have reached a point in time, as your article on Open Space (TOWN TOPICS, Nov. 7) points out, and as the Smoyer Report so well underlines that we have to face up to the problems we now have. The existence of an expanding recreational program and an increase in open space and parks can not be permitted to be left to a multitude of citizens' groups without resources and/or administrative pockets in township and borough government.

The most economical approach that would also provide the community with a rational administrative plan would be to establish one department of parks and recreation and place within it all of these holdings and related functions. It would of course be necessary to give such a department adequate resources to enable it to administer recreational programs, police the parks and open space and generally supervise this growing and terribly important function of local government. If we do not move quickly in this direction, Princeton is going to waste a great deal of its present investment in acquiring these holdings and these programs, and will be unable to round out its master plan on open space.

Desecration Decried.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter we have sent to Mayor Junius Bleiman:
As Co-Chairpeople of the Herrontown Woods Citizens Advisory Committee, we were astonished at the desecration of this outstanding natural park facility by construction practices of Princeton Community Housing. The entire PHCH boundary with Herrontown Woods reminds me of what is left after coal is strip-mined. We do not want to fence this area of Herrontown Woods as this would detract from the original gift of the Woods as a natural environment. We would appreciate receiving Township Committee's guarantee that a natural living boundary of trees and other plantings be developed before PCH is allowed to be occupied by tenants.

We appreciate your interest in the Princeton Environment.

How to Improve PHS.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
I heartily agree with Mr. Herbert McAneny's suggestion (in your Mailbox of October 24) that everybody who voted "No" on the High School bond referendum has a civic responsibility to suggest reasonable alternatives to the School Board, now that the bond issue has been defeated.
As one who voted "No" in that referendum, I would accordingly like to offer the following general observations and suggestions for improvement of Princeton High School's physical plant:
1) The improvements recommended by the School Board in its original $6,000,000 package are numerous and diverse and therefore lend themselves ideally to piecemeal implementation on an old-fashioned pay-as-you-go basis;
2) If the bond issue had been approved, interest payments alone would have been on the order of $500,000 per year;
3) I suggest that this annual figure of $500,000, representing interest we aren't paying, be set aside and used exclusively for annual improvements in the High School in whatever order of priority the School Board may think best, thereby completing all recommended improvements within approximately twelve years - at about half what it would have cost us (including interest) had the bond issue been approved.
If enough of our teachers share our interest in High School improvements, they might, by a display of restraint in their annual wage and benefit demands, enable the School Board to spend Danger on the P.J.B.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter I have sent to Alan Sagner, Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Transportation:
An incident that happened to Mrs. Harford and me Wednesday night, November 6, prompts me to ask for your advice, and perhaps intervention. We were almost run down by the Princeton Junction to Princeton dinky as we crossed the platform that straddles the dinky track at its starting point from the Junction.

We had just alighted from the 9:05 p.m. New York train, which had arrived about 15 minutes late-maybe 10:20 p.m.-at the Junction. (You may be interested also to know the reason for the train's lateness. It departed late from New York because there was "no engineer." The conductor said that the same thing happens a couple of times a month because the engineer gets in late from another train).

Following long habit my wife and I strolled casually, but not laggardly, toward the parking lot, expecting that the dinky would wait, as it always has in my memory, for the parking lot passengers to cross the dinky track at the platform before beeping and taking off for Princeton.

Not Wednesday night. A few other passengers had preceded us across the track but as we were about to step on the platform there was a quick beep and an almost simultaneous acceleration of the dinky. We stepped back in shock, just missing annihilation, and gaped disbelieving at the dinky barreling by. As far as I could tell, there was no "engineer" in the front cab to see us get clobbered—if we had been.

The next morning, I told the dinky conductors—when I got the Junction—about the incident and they nodded understandingly that it could, indeed, be a bad situation and they had recommended several times that the platform not be used as a crossing hut, instead, that the original access to that parking lot—now blocked by a cyclone fence—be opened.

This latter move many of us have grumbled about and I understand several of my fellow commuters have tried to get the access reopened. I understand why the fence was put in—to keep commuters from crossing the tracks. That has not worked anyway.

Now, you have another serious hazard, not to speak of the ridiculous inconvenience—especially to older people with bags—of having to walk a circuitous route to the cars meeting them. Mr. Commissioner, we'd all be grateful for whatever action you can initiate to either open the old access or find some other way to solve this problem!

I might suggest, Mr. Commissioner, that it would be in order to ask a Committee of Commuters to sit down with or your representatives and officials of the Penn Central to talk over several other short-term and long-term problems that should be dealt with. Like:

1) Laying out a voluntary system of car pooling to ameliorate the parking lot miasma (I think the mood of the commuter—and the cost of gas and parking—is such that it would finally work).

2) Getting commuter support for legislation that would improve mass transit over the long pull. The defeat of both the $200 million highway improvement bond (I voted against it, too) and the $100 million railroad assistance program (I voted for it) suggests that the State could use all the help it can get in educating the voter. The commuters have high motivation for pitching in. Give us a chance.

Alas, commuter skepticism over failure to act in problems like those cited above (I am past chairman of the now-defunct Committee of 100 Princeton Commuters that pushed vigorously and with spectacular unsuccess into the wet noodle Penn Central mess some years ago) leads me to send copies of this letter not only to the President of the Penn Central (even the conductors didn't know who he was) but Senators Case and Williams. Congressman Fenwick (be a champion of commuter and consumer!) the editors of the Princeton papers and our newly-elected Princeton Township Committee person, Duffy Hunter. Help! All of you, or at least one of you.

But Mr. Commissioner, it seems to me that you should take the lead. In any case, it's you I'm expecting to hear from.

Review: Too Commercial.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Because your review of "11 Harrowhouse" appealed to my husband and I slightly more than that of the Garden's presentation, we left dishes on their way to the sink in order to catch the 7 p.m. Saturday showing. What we saw at 7 p.m. was inexcusable. The usual, dull travelogue, I guess, with Roman fisherman and "beauties"—circa 1950—clad in outdated bikinis, sipping drinks on the villa verandas

If Fuel Is Short...

If you have trouble getting fuel oil as winter wears on, Princeton's Civil Defense Director has been authorized by the state to come to your rescue. Or at least, to try.

When you reach the point at which you have less than a week's supply and your fuel oil company doesn't seem able to deliver, call 924-4959 and Captain Geoffrey Sage, the Civil Defense Director, will help.

You may call Borough Hall police (924-4141) or Township Hall police (921-2100) if Captain Sage's number doesn't answer. Problems encountered by schools, public utilities, or fuel-oil dealers themselves, will be referred to the state's Office of Petroleum Allocation.

Meanwhile, conserve!

overlooking the same Roman fishing docks. Or whatever. My husband complained, after the first 10 minutes, to the usher, or the administration, and he said, "Oh, we've seen lots worse." (And, indeed, so had we, courtesy of Montgomery Wards, et al.)

Thus, our plea: If you are going to review a movie, forewarn us of this, or similar, "commercial."

OBITUARIES

Clement F. Pease, 39, who grew up at 71 Battle Road, died November 15 of a brain tumor in Berkeley Heights, where he lived.

Born in Princeton, Mr. Pease attended Princeton Country Day School, the Lawrenceville School and the University of Vermont. He was employed by the Bell Telephone Company in Murray Hill.

He is survived by his wife, Nicky, a daughter, Judith; a son, Scott; and his mother, Mrs. Robert Pease, of 35 Cedar Lane.

The memorial service was held in Berkeley Heights, with burial in Charlotte, Vermont. Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Harlan L. White, 75, former Princeton resident, died November 16 in Bradentown, Florida.

Born in North Carolina, Mr. White retired as a train conductor for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in 1957 and moved to Florida in 1960. He was a member of the Princeton Masonic Lodge 38 and Crescent Temple in Trenton.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bernice E. White; a daughter, Mrs. Bernice M. McMillen of Princeton Junction; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Coleman of Princeton and Mrs. Mildred Cuthbertson of Detroit, Mich.; a brother, Charles M. of Ewing Township; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home. Burial was in Dutch Neck Cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret R. Ansley, 76, of Pennington, died November 17 in Buckingham Valley Nursing Home.

Born in Birmingham, Alabama, Mrs. Ansley was a retired historian for the National Archives in Washington, D.C. She had lived in Pennington for the past eight years following retirement.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Santiago Porcella 3d of Pennington.

The funeral was held from the Blackwell Memorial Home, followed by a private burial.

Mrs. Lillian N. Burnett, 66, of Victor Street, Franklin Township, died November 11 in the Raritan Valley Hospital, Glen Brook.

Born in Hillsborough, Mrs. Burnett was a life-time resident of the Rocky Hill-Franklin Township area.

AUCTION IS HIGHLIGHT Of Trinity Christmas Fair.
A silent auction of several rare antiques and other unusual collectors items will be the principal attraction of this year's Trinity Christmas Fair, to be held Saturday from 10 to 6 in the Parish House, 33 Mercer Street.

The noteworthy antiques include a fine English secretary, circa 1870; a high-backed Windsor chair, a set of three oak side chairs, and a small oak occasional table, all originally purchased in England. In addition, there is a small Tiffany glass vase (signed and numbered), three painted plates of 19th century papier mache decorated with signed Italian landscapes, a set of lustre demi-tasse cups and saucers, and a cut glass punch bowl with matching cups. Several handsome glass decanters, Canton china, Limoges soup plates and Lenox china will also be auctioned.

A silent auction operates without an auctioneer. Buyers simply leave bids for the articles of their choice during the day, and the highest bid at the end of the day wins the piece.

Lunch will be served and parking will be available, as will many other booths for browsing separate from the auction. A bakery table will feature multi-grain, carrot, pumpkin, and fruit breads, while other tables will exhibit a variety of handcrafted articles and holiday decorations.

HOW TO BE "OK"

Subject of St. Paul's Classes. The Education Committee of St. Paul's Parish will sponsor a series of four classes entitled "Introduction to Transactional Analysis," given by Dr. Richard J. Lohkamp, every Sunday evening at 7:30 from November 24 through December 15.

Transactional analysis is the theory developed in the best seller "I'm OK, You're OK" by Thomas Harris, and in "Games People Play" by Eric Berne. It is a tool that helps people better understand and handle what happens in personal relationships and transactions.

The technique is being used to help improve management situations, solve organization problems, and as a focus in sensitivity and therapy sessions. It is claimed to be a popular and relatively easy theory to understand and use.

Enrollment for the four classes is limited and advance registration is required. A fee of $10 will cover the cost of books and materials. Those interested in registering should call Mrs. Luther at 799-0471.

UNITY TO BE KEYNOTE

Of Ecumenism Seminar. Jay Cardinal Willebrands, President of the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity of the Roman Catholic Church, will be principal celebrant and preacher in an Ecumenism seminar to be held Sunday through Tuesday at Princeton Theological Seminary. The program is jointly sponsored by the Ecumenical Commission of the Diocese of Trenton and the Center of Continuing Education of Princeton Theological Seminary.

The occasion marks the tenth anniversary of the Decree on Ecumenism signed by the Fathers of Vatican II on November 21, 1964, cited as "the most significant step toward Christian Unity officially taken by Roman Catholicism since the Reformation." The seminar is intended not only as a celebration of the historic event, but as a rededication of the participants to "pray as fervently as if everything depended on God--and to work as energetically as if everything depended on us." Cardinal Willebrands will be the celebrant and preacher at the opening mass, to be held in the Princeton University Chapel on Sunday, November 24, at 4:30; a reception for the Cardinal will follow at 6.

Mass will be celebrated at the Aquinas Institute, Princeton, at 8:45 Monday morning. The opening lecture of the seminar proper will be delivered by the Cardinal in Miller Chapel, Princeton Seminary, at 10:30. Seminary President James I. McCord will present the second lecture at 3, and Professor Raymond E. Brown, SS, will speak at 8.

Following a 9 o'clock Mass and Bible study on Tuesday, Bishop George W. Ahr will preach at the Seminary's 10 a.m. Chapel Service. At 11, the Rev. Dr. Dean James M. Nichols will give the final lecture of the series.

Cardinal Willebrands is a native of Holland who received his doctorate in theology from the Angelicum, Rome. He was ordained a bishop in 1964 and in 1969 was chosen to succeed Cardinal Bea; he was created a cardinal the same year.

BULLETIN NOTES

The First Baptist Church Missionary Society will hold its annual Christmas bazaar on Saturday, December 7, from 10 to 6 at John and Avalon Place. Baked goods, needle work, aprons, chicken dinners and odds and ends will be on sale.

The First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck will hold a special community Thanksgiving Eve Service at Maurice Hawk School next Wednesday at 8.

She was the oldest member of the Mount Zion AME Church, Little Rocky Hill, where she was a former superintendent of the Sunday School.

She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Page, Mrs. Wilma Kornegay and Mrs. Shirley Jackson, all of South Brunswick; Mrs. Patricia Coleman of New Brunswick; and Mrs. Barbara Morrison of Franklin Township; four sons, Richard, William and Raymond, all of South Brunswick; and John P. of New Brunswick; 31 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held in the Mount Zion AME Church, the Reverend G. Howard Hunt officiating. Burial was in Franklin Memorial Park, North Brunswick.

Osha Thornton, 88, of Reed Road, Pennington, died November 15 in St. Francis Medical Center, Trenton.

Born in Clarksdale, Mo., Mr. Thornton lived in Leavenworth, Kansas, before moving to Hopewell Township 15 years ago. A retired civil service employee, he was a member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ada M. Thornton; a son, John, of Levittown; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Jane Watson of Norman, Okla., and Mrs. Pauline Digiovacchino of Pennington; seven grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, and a great-great-granddaughter.

The funeral was held in Pennington. Memorial contributions may be made to the Memorial Fund of the St. Matthew Church.

Mrs. Anna Hellerich, 97, of Snydertown Road, Hopewell, died November 15 in Foothill Acres Nursing Home, Neshanic.

Widow of Christian Hellerich, she is survived by her son, Karl of Hopewell; two daughters, Mrs. Pauling Wiegand of Hopewell and Mrs. Marie Bauer of New Haven, Conn.; and one granddaughter.

The funeral was held in St. Alphonsus Church in Hopewell.

George P. Cahill, 87, of 2525 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrence Township, died November 5 in Mercer Care Center.

Born in Bay City, Michigan, Mr. Cahill lived in the Trenton area for 36 years.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Donald G. Ehret of Lawrenceville; four sons, George E. and Vincent J., both of Lawrenceville, John T. of Levittown and Francis J. of Trenton; a brother, Ernest of Grosse Point, Mich.; and 18 grandchildren.

The funeral was held in St. Ann's Church. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

In a Vermont-Like Setting

Colonial countryside charm is what this rural estate-like property near Hopewell Valley Country Club is all about. Beamed ceilings, corner fireplaces, gorgeous bay window, extensive party-line dining room, rustic, completely modernized handmade kitchen. You should come see it now while it's in its fall splendor. Imagine what you can do with the Sylvan pool, the barn, the workshop and the cute little well house. $94,900

Princeton Borough Investment Opportunity

Within walking distance of Firestone Library is one of the finest and largest duplexes that we've ever seen, with at least four bedrooms on each side. Downstairs, there is a living room, dining room and kitchen plus a host of other possibilities in each apartment. It's situated on a quiet and charming street where children walk to everything and you get a break to partake of everything Princeton has to offer also. Why not move into one side and make payments as if you hardly had any mortgage at all? Call us for the particulars on financing, and a sound analysis of this investment opportunity. $75,500

Near Bedens Brook Country Club

Just a few minutes from downtown Princeton yet hidden away in a private country setting is a fantastic California ranch with a creatively designed floorplan. At one end of this lovely home is a heated indoor swimming pool with flagstone patio and sauna, while at the other is a delightful master suite that can be cordoned off for either long-term guests, or an in-law arrangement. Both the huge flagstone library-study and the family room have their own fireplace while the kitchen and living room have a view of the pool. There are four or five bedrooms in all and four full baths. When winter comes this year, you can love it or leave it without even leaving your home. Why settle for less? $119,500

Overlooking Bedens Brook Valley

This one of a kind brick front Dutch Colonial is luxurious throughout from its grey slate foyer to its Rosewood paneled family room with massive raised hearth and bay window view of the wooded landscape. The magnificent view from the picture window in the formal living room overlooking the valley is complemented by the wide angle bay window exposure in the elegant dining room. The extensive eat-in kitchen is custom crafted from its neat colonial cabinets to its butcher block cutting surface. LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP

An attractive, well kept rancher, which will reduce housekeeping to a minimum.
There are 6 bright rooms. The living room has a fireplace, there is a separate dining room, and the kitchen features both cabinet space and a generous eating area.

The sleeping area (three bedrooms and two baths) is quietly isolated from living activities, the master area is again separate and has its private bath. Both baths are complete with the master bath having a spacious shower area.

The heated garage easily stores two full sized cars and has additional space for hobbies. The lot abounds with mature plantings and trees. This excellent offering is immediately available and priced most realistically at $45,000.

Introducing. . .

the Meadows

... country homes

An exclusive cluster of just twelve [12] new traditional homes on an idyllic cul-de-sac off Elm Ridge Road in Hopewell Township.

Hopewell Valley Builders, famed for many fine homes in Pretty Brook, Penn View Heights, and Elm Ridge Park, is the developer and builder of the Meadows. Quality materials, the finest craftsmen and the latest fabrication techniques are used to assure you of the ultimate in construction and value.

The distinguished architect, William Thompson, A.I.A., has created the designs for this unique grouping of country homes. You'll see splendid use of wood and brick for lasting beauty and character.

Two years in the planning, the Meadows is now ready for your inspection and visit. One home is 90 per cent completed. Others will follow.

Come take a look at the Meadows. You can still pick your own lot and Hopewell Valley Builders will custom build the home of your dreams. Brand new, yet traditional in design. Beautiful. Great investments for the future.

Here is the first. The first home in the Meadows has a huge family room with an antique brick fireplace and high vaulted ceiling with exposed beams. There's a center hall, of course, and eat-in kitchen, lovely dining room with chair rail and oversized living room with formal fireplace and large multi-paned windows. Four bedrooms, 2½ baths complete the living area. The extra large garage will handle your two cars with room to spare. All of this on nearly an acre and a half. You'll love it. $114,000. Financing is available to qualified buyers.

In the home market? Come to the Meadows!

Just twelve traditional homes. Off Elm Ridge Road in Hopewell Township.

Training Rigorous, Hours Long for Volunteers at Art Museum But Rewards Are So Plentiful That There Is a Waiting List

Excited about art, rigorously trained by professionals in fields as widely separated as the art of Chinese scroll painting and the works of Chardin, eager to convey their excitement and knowledge....

They're the docents of the Princeton University Art Museum, a group of some 40 women volunteers who will guide you around the museum the next time your group signs up for a tour.

Docents -- the word is derived from the Latin verb meaning "to teach" -- are actually only part of the Princeton University Art Volunteers, a group of 55 women whose members serve not only as docents, but also as hostesses at the museum's desk and general purveyors of information about the museum.

In the beginning --1967-- docents were part of the University League, the organization of faculty wives. Today, they work under the aegis of the museum, particularly with Allen Rosenbaum, assistant director of the museum who is responsible for training the volunteers.

Townpeople are now eligible, too, provided they belong to the Friends of the Museum. (But the ranks of the Volunteers are closed at the moment and there is even a waiting list.)

Varied Backgrounds. Docents are obviously interested in art and excited about it, but they're not necessarily art historians at all. A few of them do have doctorates, but only one has a Ph.D. in art.

"We don't require special training -- we GIVE it!" says Mrs. Lyman Spitzer, the coordinator in charge of training the docents.

Women accepted as a docent agree to serve a minimum of two years. "It takes a full year to train," Mrs. Spitzer explains, "and we like at least one year of service after that -- preferably a good deal more, of course. We ask that the woman make this her main commitment outside her home and family. Training schedules vary from year to year, but usually it's two hours each Monday morning, sometimes Thursdays as well."

In addition, the volunteer is expected to work on her own. As part of her training, she learns how to use the Index of Christian Art and the slides and photographs in the Marquand Library. She is asked to attend lectures given by the University's Department of Art and Archaeology and, as a member of a provisional group, is assigned a subject and asked to give a brief report.

"We try to be as professional as possible in our training," Mrs. Spitzer says. "We want to keep increasing our already high standards -- the kind of standards you must have in a truly great museum like this one."

Training Is Intensive. Docents learn about Hindu

LEARNING, TEACHING: Mrs. Lyman Spitzer (left), and Mrs. Charles C. Gillispie examine an African sculpture at Princeton University's Art Museum. Mrs. Gillispie is general chairman of the Princeton University Art Museum Volunteers and Mrs. Spitzer coordinates the training of docents: volunteers who guide tours through the museum's treasures.

art, ivories, cubism, print-making techniques, Byzantine art and backstage activities at the museum. And, of course, as new exhibitions are hung, all docents go through an intensive training session.

After the year's training, they are ready to begin conducting tours. Last year, over 150 groups from a wide geographic spread, traveled to the museum.

Students from Erasmus Hall High School in Brooklyn who wanted the general overall tour, a Brownie troop from Skillman took the "What is Art?" tour, teachers from the Soviet Union who also took the general tour, and students from Junior High School 217 in Queens who came to see the Mediaeval and Classical galleries...youngsters from the Grant School in Trenton who toured the African Gallery, students from Princeton's John Witherspoon School who visited the African Gallery, too.

Slide Units in Use. The Volunteers charge for these tours -- they won't say how much -- but schools come in free. With the proceeds, the Volunteers prepare slide units related to museum exhibits.

"The museum has a fragment of the true Chartres window," Mrs. Spitzer smiles, "so we have slides showing what a Mediaeval French village might have looked like. We have pre-Columbian, African Mediaeval and Oriental units and one on the museum as a whole. These are units we take to schools."

Docents prepare these units by doing research in libraries, and making slides. The University's Department of Art and Archaeology offers its slides for copying, and the

Want to Visit Hirshhorn?

A few seats still remain on a bus which will travel to Washington for an overnight art trip under the sponsorship of the University's Art Museum Volunteers.

There will be custom-led tours of the new Hirshhorn Collection, the National Gallery, the Freer and the Phillips.

The bus will leave at 7:30 a.m. Thursday, December 5, from the Princeton Shopping Center and will return at dinner-time on Friday. The overnight stay will be in the Watergate complex in Washington with random assignments in double rooms. The tour price of $50 includes everything except meals. Reservations, with check made out to Museum Volunteer Washington Trip, may be made through Mrs. Charles Chandler, 107 Westcott Road, Princeton.

docents in turn let A. and A. copy theirs.

Every week, there are the Friday "Take a Museum Break" sessions, lunch-hour mini-talks by docents or staff on a single item in the museum. They are given at 12:40 p.m. and 1:40 p.m. to catch anyone's lunch schedule. (The museum has no place to eat; those who attend must eat before or after.)

This Friday's 15-minute talk will be on Childe Hassam's "Rainy Day" and it will be given by Professor Robert Clark of the Department of Art and Archaeology. This Sunday at 3 p.m., Mrs. Edward Elliott of the docents will talk on Ch'ien Hsuan's "The Sparrow on the Apple Branch."

School groups are a most important part of docent scheduling -- which is handled by Mary Wisnovsky, responsible for co-ordinating the museum's community-related activities.

Before the pupils come, the docents find out from the teacher what the curriculum is and what the teacher expects of the trip. Often, teachers visit the museum themselves to learn what its resources are.

Seminars Popular. "We used to have an 'open house' for teachers," Mrs. Spitzer says, "but when Peter Bunnell became museum director, he decided to call them 'seminars' and this has brought in a lot of teachers. And not all art teachers, either; in fact, usually NOT art teachers."

Even the kindergarteners come, and the docents may spend only 20 minutes with them, perhaps showing them a triptych related to Christmas. St. Paul's Catholic School brings many groups to see a variety of religious paintings.

An English class studying Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities" saw paintings from the France and England of that period. Fifth-graders from one school examined the role of geometry in art.

Often, after a class has visited the museum its members will write a "thank you." Mrs. Spitzer and the docents treasure these letters. The calligraphy belongs to an early period in the writer's life and the orthography is sometimes quite individual, but the communication is clear.

"I learned more than I was thinking of learning about. All of those jugs was best."

"I liked the fountain, I liked the statue head of Athena, I liked all the mosaics, I liked the pottery and best of all I liked you."

McCarter's "'Tis Pity" Is Showy, Diverting—Occasionally Flawed But Could Well Be a Hit

McCARTER HEADLINERS: Christina Baranski as Annabella and Franklyn Sealas as Giovanni in "'Tis Pity She's a Whore," by John Ford. (Cliff Moore Photo)

A showy, sometimes sideshowy, always diverting production of John Ford's 17th-century melodrama, "'Tis Pity She's a Whore" opened in Princeton Thursday as the second play in the McCarter Theatre Company's new season. It continues this week from Thursday through Sunday, and our guess is that tickets will sell fast, which is not to call this great theatrical art.

While the play by one of Shakespeare's contemporaries is sometimes billed as a and the biological consequences of sexual intercourse—that after some intoxicating kisses and precious few words of persuasion, brother has seduced sister. This happens so fast it suggests that the playwright is impatient to get on with his story

The End Product. Their all-in-the-family affair proceeds blissfully for some months, and Annabella blithely waves off three noble suitors including Soranzo, whom she really rather likes, when suddenly she finds—or rather she faints and the doctor finds—that she is pregnant. By whom remains a secret, but her father arranges a fast marriage to Soranzo, who on their marriage night or thereabouts discovers (how?) that she is pregnant. At first he is murderously enraged and hurls her about in her nightgown and we would be shirking our responsibility as a newspaperman if we failed to record that this results in a fair amount of so-called frontal nudity.

News Of The THEATRES

tragic masterpiece, its lack of subtlety and restraint—qualities also generally lacking in this production—tends to keep it in the melo range. But it has in abundance at least two of the ingredients—sex and violence—that hits are made of.

"'Tis Pity," which has more plots than a Brooklyn cemetery and in the end almost as many corpses, deals centrally with a lad of means, Giovanni, who is desperately in love with his beautiful sister, Annabella. She, when pressed—and Giovanni is one hard presser—confesses she loves him, too.

Their passion is so overwhelming—and-or their imaginations so stunted when it comes to foreseeing the social consequences of incest

But Soranzo's Machiavellian manservant, Vasques, calms him down and persuades him to spare Annabella and murder instead the secret lover whose name Annabella refuses to reveal but which Vasques—the knife-carver out of her maid-servant. A trap is set for Giovanni, but he surprises the trappers by killing Annabella, cutting her heart out, waving it, impaled on his dagger, in the faces of the assembled company—including his father and a Cardinal—and finally stabbing Soranzo with the knife on which his wife's heart is still impaled, in a veritable St. Valentine's Day massacre. On the positive side, "Tis Pity" deals with a strong human hunger, and the young lovers are at times genuinely pitiable, and there is so much action that however bloody the play gets, it is never a bloody bore, though in truth it comes near to being one toward the end. With a couple of exceptions it is beautifully cast, well acted, handsomely costumed by Lawrence Casey; and Robert U. Taylor gives us another of his inspired settings, this time a massive, cold, stone-and-metal structure which promises little sympathy for the young lovers who need so much of it. The direction by McCarter's gifted Producing Director, Michael Kahn, while brilliant in some respects, struck this fallible observer as having two notable flaws.

First, where a more restrained interpretation of the goings-on might have kept the audience emotionally concerned with the characters, and less inclined in the end to see this as a kind of lavish put-on. Mr. Kahn's direction seemed to be milking—or bleeding—a sensational play for its last drop of sensationalism. For example, the death-by-poison scene of Hippolita, who figures in one of those many subplots, was out of an old silent movie; so exaggerated it drew scattered laughter on opening night. She tore a passion to titters.

Oafish Elis. On that point, Clive Barnes, reviewing in the New York Times a 1967 production of "Tis Pity" at Yale, referred to the "oafish Yale audience," saying, "Unsophisticated titters, uncomprehending hisses and a general undertow of yahoo disapproval said little for what is understood to be a major university."

There may have been Yale yahoos at McCarter on opening night, but our guess is that Mr. Kahn in directing this scene and the mounting mayhem at the end of the play did not take sufficiently into account a normal audience's sense of humor, and its capacity for seeing through the proceedings on stage and into the minds and motivations of the author and the director. When a play comes on too bloody strong, we are entitled to titter, if necessary, in defense of our own sensibilities.

The other flaw was Giovanni. Casting Franklyn Seales and Christine Baranski as brother and sister was puzzling and, we thought, unfortunate. Surely a play about a brother-sister love affair would be more poignant if they looked a little bit alike. But this brother and sister seemed not only from different families but from different countries.

Moreover, the sister-seducing Giovanni can be obnoxiously unsympathetic unless played with touching innocence and sweetness, qualities which this sexually insistent Giovanni did not bring to it. He seemed to ask

We Play Chicago

The Goodman Theatre in Chicago will play host to McCarter's production of "Tis Pity She's A Whore" after the play completes its run in Princeton on Sunday.

It's not only a "first" for McCarter, but it's one of the few times in American theatrical history that such an arrangement has been concluded between two major regional theatres, according to Michael Kahn, McCarter's producing director. Sets, costumes, props and a virtually intact cast will fly to Chicago to recreate the production on the Goodman stage.

"I am very enthusiastic about the inherent possibilities of this experiment," Mr. Kahn says. "If it proves successful, it will open up new areas of mutual exploration and artistic growth for regional theatres throughout the country."

for those oafish cheers that greeted his eventual demise.

Discrimination? Ms. Baranski had the innocence and sweetness plus dignity and spirit, and we thought her very good as Annabella. For ourselves, we could have lived without the nudity, since we could imagine perfectly well how she would look with her clothes off, and indeed our version was actually a little better than hers. We heard a few muttered complaints afterward from women who said that if Annabella could be seen in her entirety, how come Giovanni was a no-show? But no one could fault this production for a lack of overstuffed codpieces.

The rest of the cast was fine, particularly Al Freeman Jr., whose intelligent underplaying of Vasques was in welcome contrast to the general level, as was Michael Levin's as the loving but jealous Soranzo. John Tillinger was interestingly funny in the comic-relief role of a dumb suitor. Hugh Reilly, Charlotte Jones, Frank Borgman, Seymour Penzner, Michael Houlihan and Jack Gwillim gave strong support to the principals.

Quite an evening.

Time Takes Its Toll in Players' Offering Of R.U.R." —Czech Play Proves Dated

The Princeton Community and the play. Players launched their 42nd season last weekend with a moment at the end of the play, workmanlike production of but by this time it is too late. Karel Capek's melodrama, Briefly, time has run out, and "R.U.R.". Performances this the small band of humans week will be on Thursday, stand horrified gazing out at Friday and Saturday at 8:30 at the empty faces of the robots the group's new home at 171 who mass below for their final Broadmead Street, east of onslaught. Since the action and not merely by theater is small, reservations words. might be advisable. Call 924-5976 in the day and 896-9746 in the evening.

"R.U.R." demonstrates forcefully that the distance thrust stage. What would happen if section, there is also much to robots freed him from the necessity of work? And what of nations if they were able to create vast armies of robots to implement their nationalistic megalomania? "R.U.R.", which stands for "Rossum's Universal Robots" is the dark answer to those questions.

Somewhat Dated. Unfortunately the play shows its age, and, despite the labors of the actors, it only occasionally moves the audience. Outstanding was Marie-Claire Kamin as Helena Glory. She alone among the major characters was able to bring some fragile flame of life to otherwise lifeless cardboard smoothings of platitudes and cliches. Too much time has gone by and this story has been repeated too many times for the play's message to overcome its faults. In the supporting cast John Wible stands out in his role of Radios, the leader of the robot revolt. In his exchange with the one remaining human in the world, we vividly sense a quality of nobility which is not found in most of the human characters. There is a rightness to Mr. Wible's moment of indecision as he stands poised between life and principle that shows the insight of a fine actor.

Mr. Washburne's direction strives valiantly to involve us. But neither he nor the actors can consistently bridge the distance between the audience and the play. The next production for the Community Players' 1974-75 season will be Herb Gardner's warm and human comedy, "A Thousand Clowns" in mid-January. After that, "Philadelphia, Here I Come!" by Brian Friel will be given a March airing. The season will conclude with Paul Zindel's "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" in May. Subscription tickets are still available at a substantial saving. —Laurence A. Mansier

WHAT! ONLY 98? "Dolly" Has Small Cast. It's one of the smallest casts in the 14-year history of the Princeton Junction and Back Players, the 98 actors, singers and dancers who have been signed on for "Hello, Dolly!" The P.J. and B. musical, an annual pre-Christmas event in Princeton, will be given at McCarter on Thursday, December 5 at 7:30 p.m. and on Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday at 2:30. That 98-member cast includes the usual variety: commuters and stay-at-homes, housewives and career girls, grandmothers and high-school students, to say nothing of 18 University undergraduates. Participants comes from 15 different New Jersey communities besides Princeton. Plainfield? Yes, indeed. Somerville? Of course. Philip Graneto has designed the sets, Muffet Hedges the costumes, Lowell Achziger the lighting, Don Boroson and Mr. Lyon will be at the twin pianos.

PLAY AT STUART
"Blithe Spirit." Noel Coward's comedy "Blithe Spirit" about the ghostly former wife who returns, in spirit, to her re-married husband, will be given at Stuart Country Day School this Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. The Coward comedy was given earlier this month by Princeton's Triangle Club, and its members have lent their set to the Stuart Drama Club for this production. The set was designed to fit the theatre in the 185 Nassau Street building, where Triangle's production was presented, and it will be scaled down to Stuart's theatre.

MEMBERS OF PDS CAST: Amy Stover, Christine Cragg and Charles Segal appear in Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," which Princeton Day School will present Friday, Saturday and Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

"MATCHMAKER" AT PDS
For Three Performances. For playgoers who prefer non-musical events, but who are attracted to this year's PJ&B production of "Hello, Dolly," the Princeton Day School Drama Club offers an alternative. This week the club is presenting Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," the original drama on which the popular musical was based. There will be three performances, Friday, 22, Saturday, and next Wednesday at 8:30 in the theater at Princeton Day. Tickets are available now or can be bought at the door.

The Drama Club, once again under the directorship of Herbert McAneny, presents a number of veteran actors, including nine seniors who have appeared in previous productions. They are Christine Cragg and Chuck Segal, who will portray the main characters, Dolly Levi, and Horace Vandergelder; Lars Selberg, Elliot Pilshaw, Linda Farlow, Amy Stover, Marita Sturken, John Brinster and Hilary Winter. The cast also includes another senior, Chris Miller, and Monty Brower, Isabelle Frank Molly Murdoch, Jay Itzkowitz, David O'Connor and Ralph Adams.

The list of committee heads also includes a number of experienced Drama Club members: house, Janet Rassweiler; tickets, Elleo Albert; scenery, Gay Wilmerding; lighting, Bill Uhl; sound, Phil Thompson; costumes, Susi Vaughan and Ruth Barach; publicity, Marjorie Williams and Dick Gordon; props, Cary Bachelder; makeup, Tina Pritchard. The stage crew consultant, a faculty member, is Pierre Mali. The president of the club, in charge of coordinating all these aspects, is Kip Herrick; the secretary-treasurer is Christine Cragg.

HELDOVER.....
Two Stoppard Plays. In response to popular demand, as the saying goes, Theatre Intime is offering three extra performances of Tom Stoppard's two plays, "The Real Inspector Hound" and "After Magritte." The plays will be presented this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre. "After Magritte," the first of the two, tells about the lives of two ballroom dancers and their tuba-playing mother. When a Scotland Yard detective begins to quiz them about their involvement in a bizarre crime.....

"The Real Inspector Hound" is a spoof of detective stories. Agatha Christie, backstage intrigue, drama criticism and the theatre in general, are all targets of Stoppard's wit. Mitchell Ivers is the director. Actors are Eric Zwemer, Kimberly Myers and James Horton. Mark Nelson has done the sets.

PLAYHOUSE
American Graffiti and Slaughterhouse-Five. One reason for the rush of nostalgia films is "American Graffiti," one of the very best. It is a tender, touching, beautifully-realized study of some 1962 teenagers performing their last rites before college at the sock hop, drive-in and dragstrip. First rate in every way. "Where were you in '62?" If you missed it the first time around and want to find out whether those days were worth remembering or not, don't miss it now.

LAST PERFORMANCE SET

For Pennington Players' Comedy. The Pennington Players will present the final performance of the adult comedy hit, "Forty Carats," on Saturday evening at 8:30 at Heritage Hall of the Pennington Presbyterian Church. The two-act comedy is directed by Susan Tapper and stars Kate O'Neill, Wayne Carter, Susan Humphreys, Geri Tallone, Tom Durand, Tom O'Neill, Mary Rees, Debbie Lee Tienken, Billie Durand, Jack Rees and Stuart Mindlin. Tickets are available at the door.

HEAD COMEDY CAST: Kate O'Neill and Wayne Carter have leading roles in "Forty Carats," which the Pennington Players will present Saturday at 8:30 in the First Presbyterian Church, Pennington.

First released in 1972, and based on Kurt Vonnegut's book about a spastic, Billy Pilgrim, "Slaughterhouse-Five" follows the book with amazing fidelity.

It is a tricky tale to follow, for Billy is a time tripper who shifts constantly between the episodes of his life, past, present and future.

A successful optometrist with a plump wife, two kids and a dog, Billy first came unstuck during World War II and he has been ricocheting through the events of his life with no control over where he goes next.

Having survived the fire-bombing of Dresden, Billy passively endures, only to later survive a plane crash that kills all the other passengers. He is kidnapped by a flying saucer and taken to a planet where the inhabitants can only see in four dimensions, and Billy is mated with another earthling, a sexy movie star.

Poor Billy always knows how things will turn out because he has already been there. The cast, right down the line, with Michael Sacks as Billy, is perfect, a successful translation of a virtually unfilmable book. Both the book and the film can be described as "intricate, voluptuous, enchanted and absurd."

GARDEN

Love and Anarchy. An emotional tale centering on a backwoods Italian peasant who takes it upon himself to assassinate Mussolini at the height of the Duce's power in the mid '30s, "Love and Anarchy" is one of the few major products to be written and directed by a woman—Lina Wertmüller. In spite of a heavy-handed style, Miss Wertmüller's film proves to be highly involving on both a gut and intellectual level. She is a former assistant to Fellini.

Giancarlo Giannini is the peasant who journeys to Rome to carry out the assassination but his contact turns out to be a golden-haired beauty in a posh bordello. She uses her horizontal advantage to pry secrets from her Fascist customers.

Giannini's desires quickly become less activist than sensual. His doubts only intensify as the fatal moment to act arrives. His mission becomes a conflict between life-affirming sex and sober political expediency. In a tragic, violent end, neither emerges as a winner.

Mariangela Melato as the sensuous contact and Lina Polito as one of the younger girls with whom Giannini decides to join his heart are both excellent, passionate and extraordinarily human.

PRINCE

Gold. A large scale adventure, "Gold" centers around an ingenious plot to raise the price of international gold by flooding one of the largest gold mines in South Africa. Along with the action and intrigue, mix in some extramarital romance and a top-rate cast, including Roger Moore, Susannah York, Ray Milland, John Gielgud and Bradford Dillman. The result, while not 24 karat, is still highly satisfying.

The film gets off to a bristling start with a graphic mine incident and then leisurely works through the required rivalries, intrigues and romance, building toward a tense finale as Moore, the general mine manager, launches a last-ditch attempt to halt the impending disaster.

Moore excels as the cocky, bad-boy hero manager; Dillman is the mine manager who conspires with Gielgud, an international financier, to make a killing on the gold market by flooding the mine. Illicit romance surfaces between Moore and Miss York (lovely as ever), Dillman's neglected wife and the daughter of mine-owner Milland.

Despite the tendency to paint Gold's characters with a broad brush in stock conventions, it is first-rate as

BEAUX ARTS COMING

Trio to Play in McCarter. The Beaux Arts Trio will appear in Princeton on Monday at 8:30 at McCarter Theatre in the second concert of Series I of the Princeton University Concerts. Artists Menahem Pressler, piano; Isidore Cohen, violin and Bernard Greenhouse, cello, will perform "Trio in A Major" by Haydn; Beethoven's "Trio in E flat Major, Opus 70, No. 2" and "Trio in E minor, Opus 90" by Dvorak.

Freshness of approach, unified ensemble playing, superb musicianship and tremendous zest characterizes the Beaux Arts Trio's performances. Since its debut 20 years ago, the Trio has been hailed on three continents. Praise for the Beaux Arts Trio has been echoed over and over, not only by audiences and critics, but by the strictest judges of musical excellence - their fellow musicians.

"An inspiring experience," was the late Arturo Toscanini's verdict after hearing the trio play, "fine chamber music with impeccable taste and musicianship." Zino Francescatti wrote that he enjoyed tremendously the perfection and artistry of this admirable ensemble... "a great ensemble with great artists."

On records, the Beaux Arts Trio has won wide acclaim, including the coveted Grand Prix du Disque. They have recorded all the Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms, Mendelssohn, Ravel, Tchaikovsky, op. 50, Schubert and Dvorak Trios.

Tickets for the concert are available at the McCarter box office. Student tickets may be obtained for $2 the evening of the performance, one hour before curtain time.

COREA HERE SATURDAY

Last of Pop-Rock Shows. Chick Corea and "Return to Forever" will bring McCarter's autumn series of pop and rock concerts to a close with a pair of shows this Saturday in Alexander Hall. The 8 p.m. show is sold out, (except for obstructed-view seats) but the McCarter box-office still has tickets for the late show at 11. Tickets may also be purchased at the door. "Return to Forever" was voted "Instrumental combo of the year" by Playboy Magazine and Melody Maker in 1973. The combo consists of Corea on keyboards (electric piano, synthesizer, organ and clavinet), Stanley Clarke on bass, Lenny White on drums and Al Dimeola on guitar.

Corea says the music of "Return to Forever" is aimed at listeners who would rather participate in music than analyze it. "We want people to have fun with our music, to dance to it even... Our big challenge is retaining our musical integrity while bringing audiences into rapport with us."

THREE CONCERTS LISTED

For This Weekend. The Friends of Music will present three free concerts this weekend at Woolworth Center on the Princeton campus. Soprano Ann Sease-Monoyios and Edward Parmentier, harpsichordist, will be heard on Friday at 8:30.

Their program will be devoted to 16th and 17th century Italian music, including works by Frescobaldi, Caccini and Monteverdi. Ms. Monoyios received her MFA from Princeton this year and is continuing her studies with Shirlee Emmons in New York while embarking on a professional singing career. Edward Parmentier is a graduate student in musicology and is currently the student of the well-known harpsichordist, Albert Fuller of the Juilliard School of Music.

A concert for piano, cello and violin will be given on Saturday at 8:30 by three Princeton students David Newberg, Stephen Westergan and Anthony Elias. Their program will include Schubert's "Trio in B flat Major, Opus 99" and "Trio in B Major, Opus 8" by Brahms. David Newberg, piano, is a junior and University scholar majoring in History. He has won a number of competitions and is currently a piano student of Martin Canin in New York.

Stephen Westergan, cello, is a senior majoring in English.

He has been studying cello since the eighth grade and was principal cellist with the Princeton University Orchestra for two years. Junior Anthony Elias, violin, is a pre-medical student majoring in chemistry. He was concertmaster last season of the Princeton University Orchestra and is currently studying the violin with Isidore Cohen in New York.

On Sunday, at 3:30, Patricia Arden, pianist, will give a concert. Her program will be Mozart's "Sonata in E flat Major"; "Sonata in C Major, Opus 53" by Beethoven; "Sonata Opus 1" by Berg; and Chopin's "Sonata No. 2 in B Minor, Opus 58." Mrs. Arden is a graduate of the University of Michigan and taught piano there. She won a number of competitions and has given many solo recitals in Michigan and Indiana. She is the wife of Bruce W. Arden, Chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering at Princeton University.

PIANO RECITAL FRIDAY

At Lawrenceville. The young American pianist Bruce Eberle will give a recital in the Foundation House on the Lawrenceville School campus, Friday evening at 8. Currently performing, teaching and coaching in New York, Eberle is completing work for his doctoral degree in performance at Yale University.

His program will include a sonata by Baldassarre Galuppi; the Prelude, Chorale and Fugue of Cesar Franck; a nocturne of Chopin; and The Piano Variations of Aaron Copland and Fantasy on Donizetti's opera "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Franz Liszt. The Lawrenceville program is sponsored by the Music Department in conjunction with the school library. Others in the series will be the Delbarton Baroque Ensemble on December 13, a second appearance of Hy Frank's Dixieland jazz ensemble in January, and music for organ and flute on February 21. The November 22 program is open to the public without charge.

BARITONE TO SING

At Seminary Friday. Melvin B. White will appear in public concert on Friday at 7:30 in Princeton Seminary's Campus Center auditorium. He will be accompanied by Ms. Mary H. Sweazy.

White, a baritone, is enrolled in the Master of Divinity program at the Seminary. Since his first recital, at the age of 4, he has appeared in more than 100 recitals across the country.

The program includes Handel's "Lascia ch'io pianga," Verdi's "Lo vedremo veglio audace" and "Eri tu che macciavi"; Donizetti's "Bella siccome un angelo," Verdi's "Alla vita che t'arride" and "La donna e mobile," and Rossini's "Largo al factotum della città"; five "Portraits of Love," arranged by White; two spirituals and Allister's "The Lord to My Light."

IT'S NEW

To Us

NEW GIFT SHOP OPENS in Kingston. We recently learned that there is more than one explanation for the abbreviation R.F.D. Although it most commonly refers to rural free delivery, in Kingston it represents an attractive and varied gift shop.

This newly opened branch of a Nantucket store, R.F.D., Ltd., is named for the three Scudder brothers (Robert, Frederic and Dick) who started the business last year.

Frederic Scudder, the manager and buyer, taught art at Rider College for the past four years, and he views the shop "purely as a matter of taste." He said, "If my taste isn't good, I'm in left field, but if it is, then I have it made."

We felt everything from the patterned plastic glasses to the Williamsburg reproductions had been carefully selected. Authentically reproduced from the original molds are solid brass or pewter trivets, hooks, hurricane lamps, fireplace tools and andirons, Madison oval mirrors and chandeliers.

For Small Treasures... Also from Williamsburg are some handsome wooden tea caddies. These boxes are tin lined and can be locked, making them perfect for any small treasures or even jewelry, $65 and $83.

NEW IN KINGSTON: In a lovely 19th century Kingston house, Frederic Scudder recently opened a varied gift shop, RFD Limited. By the marble fireplace are two Williamsburg reproductions, a wooden tea caddy and brass andirons.

Other gift suggestions include marvelous smelling cranberry or bayberry hand-dipped candles from Nantucket, two 10-inch ones cost $1.75; a set of cookie molds with the antique designs used by the Laxa family, $5; and a set of three white cachepots, $15.

For the craftsperson, Mr. Scudder has chosen some quilted pillow kits from a North Carolina company that will do a professional finishing job for you. Choices include some lovely early American, bird and fruit designs, $7.50 and up.

There is also an unusual kit for creating your own Apple Cora doll, complete with everything but the apple and cloves.

For Men... Especially for men, R.F.D., Ltd. has some elaborate shirts in floral or abstract prints, and one (our favorite) in a French newspaper print by Wear Wolf, $15. There is also a choice of wide ties in conservative designs.

For the women, Mr. Scudder will be carrying ultra suede clothing by Clarissa of Alexandria, the same line she is selling to Bonwits. Currently, some Halston slacks, sweaters and cardigans in a range of muted fall colors are in stock, and as an opening special they are all incredibly priced at $25 each.

Mr. Scudder told us he tries to carry a "combination of quality pieces without slipping into one department." As we looked around at the beautiful Pyne Press books, the heavy French crystal glasses, and the Fontana soap, hair spray and other toiletries, we felt he certainly had achieved his objective.

The shop also has a number of antiques which Mr. Scudder has chosen to coordinate with the atmosphere of this 1860's house. It is an enchanting house and the Federal mirrors, Shaker chairs and merchant's desk are all quite appropriate.

Located at 77 Main Street, Kingston, R.F.D., Ltd. is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 until 5; Sundays from 1 until 5.

NEW EMPHASIS ADDED

At Emphasis. At 126 Nassau Street, the emphasis is usually on sportswear, but in a new departure this holiday season Emphasis has gone all out with a selection of dressy party clothes.

Added to the traditional velvets are satins, chiffons and lots of glitter; and as a special bonus many of the fashions are in fabrics that can be enjoyed year round.

Leslie J. has used Qiana nylon to make fluid two- and three-piece dress and pyjama Fight inflation. Invest in furniture!

It's true, you can fight inflation if you invest in Country Workshop ready-to-finish furniture.

Country Workshop furniture can triple its value in just minutes. HERE'S WHY:

1st It's unique. Designed and created by the hands of furniture craftsmen. It's made of solid hardwoods (walnut and white maple). All drawers are completely dovetailed and center-guided. Drawer bottoms are masonite duolux, fitted in grooves & reinforced with glue blocks.

Tops of pieces are joined to the sides with a lock joint. Bottoms are glued and screwed. Tops, sides and bottoms are rabbeted at back for strength and flush fit. You'd have to look hard for better furniture.

Country Workshop furniture is sanded and assembled at the factory, ready for you to finish with stain, varnish, enamel, oil, etc.

You finish it yourself easily in next to no time (remember, it's already sanded). There you have it... a finer piece of furniture than most factory-finished pieces costing up to three times as much! You can fight inflation with Country Workshop furniture.

Engagements and Weddings

ENGAGEMENTS

Toomey-Bugdal. Miss Ann K. Toomey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Toomey, Jr. of Lawrence Township, to Donald J. Bugdal, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bugdal of Trenton. The wedding is planned for May 23.

Both are graduates of Notre Dame High School. Miss Toomey is an alumna of Rider College, currently employed by Educational Testing Service. Her fiancé, a graduate of Rutgers College, is a master's degree candidate at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania.

Giordano-Ferdinando. Miss JoAnn Giordano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Giordano of Skillman, to Clement Ferdinando, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinando of Edison. A September wedding is planned.

Miss Giordano, a graduate of Somerville High School, is employed at the N.J. Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. Her fiancé earned an associate degree from Middlesex County College and a B.S. from Rutgers University. He is studying towards his master's in environmental science at Rutgers, while working as a health inspector for the Middlebrook Regional Health Commission.

Stitt-McIlvried. Miss Susan Stitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Stitt of Plainsboro, to E. John McIlvried, son of Mrs. and Mrs. E. J. McIlvried of Medina, Ohio. A June wedding is planned.

Miss Stitt is a graduate of Princeton High School and Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio. She presently teaches in Zanesville, Ohio. Her fiancé will graduate from Muskingum College in June.

Mills-Hardie. Miss Elizabeth L. Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Mills of Pretty Brook Road, to James A. Hardie, son of Mrs. Frances I. Hardie and Dr. Robert H. Hardie of Nashville. A June wedding is planned.

Miss Mills attended the Princeton Day School and is presently a senior at Smith College, Northampton, Mass. Mr. Hardie attended Hillsboro High School, Nashville, and graduated from Princeton University in the Class of 1973.

WEDDINGS

Schoonover-Boynton. Miss Jane A. Boynton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll A. Boynton of Pottersville, to David E. Schoonover, son of Mrs. O.E. Schoonover and the late Mr. Schoonover; November 17 in the Princeton University Chapel.

The bride works with the Historical Studies Library of the Institute of Advanced Studies. She was graduated from the Foxhollow School in Lenox, Mass. and Sullins College, and also attended Penn State University.

Mr. Schoonover was graduated from the University of Texas. He has earned Master of Arts Degrees from the University of Michigan and Princeton University, where he is currently a doctoral candidate. The couple will live in Princeton.

outfits for the dressiest occasion. Some of the choices include a beige backless dress with a ruffle-trimmed jacket, a black floral printed pyjama with a cap-sleeved top and matching shirt jacket, and a soft green gored skirt topped by a sleeveless top and a matching cardigan jacket, all $78.

In heavy nyesta nylon, Ninotchka has designed a washable year-round t-shirt dress in two gorgeous stripes—a teal with sea foam or a russet with off-white, $64. In the same nylon are the widest palazzo pants we have ever seen, again in that lovely teal, and there is a matching turtleneck top, $58 and $28 respectively.

Velvet a Favorite. Velvet is always a winter favorite and Emphasis has a wide choice of skirts, jumpers, pants and blazers in black, brown or burgundy. All of these are even more attractive when combined with a glitter top, and you can choose from black, brown and silver turtlenecks, shells and sweaters.

Manager Susan Ring especially likes the stylish Maurice Antaya line, and it is easy to see why. The choices here include separates (pants, halter top, and shirt jacket) in a black satin printed with a pale tangerine, brown and green iris design, and a chiffon group (lined pants, very full gored skirt and blouses) in two floral designs, $30 to $58.

Also from Maurice Antaya is a striking lightweight glitter fabric. In a chevron design formed by several tones of copper there are lined pants and a mandarin-styled jacket, and in the same design formed by tones of blue there are more pants, a short skirt and a blouse top with a feather-trimmed tie for your neck or waist.

Again, for year-round wear we liked Sirette Sport's sheer chiffon blouse with full sleeves and a keyhole neckline. It comes in red or green with a delicate daisy design, and there are matching red lined pants with a sash covering the elastic waistband and in the green an extremely full flared skirt with an even fuller hem creating the feeling of a ruffle, $26 to $58.

With all these and more, it is bound to be a holiday season of pretty clothes. Emphasis at 126 Nassau Street in open from 9:30 to 5:30 Monday through Friday and from 9:30 to 5 on Saturdays.

ART In Princeton

EVEN LASTING SEARCH

For New Forms of Expression. There is, in art, a constant search for new means of expression. This includes the bizarre, the fanciful and the terrible, as well as the truly creative effort. Often, it offers the viewer a new perspective and depth of vision; as often, it is a questionable way for an artist to draw attention to himself. Although the search for new ways is perpetual, traditional art continues to proliferate. Sometimes it represents the artist's inability to see and interpret more creatively, but can be as profound and stimulating a visual experience as the more intellectual, literary and frequently contrived visual potpourri that we are offered.

Realism, in the traditional

sense, can combine familiar objects or views with creative use of medium and space so that it joins the recognizable with the visual elements that comprise all good art. It can also, as in abstracted art, be used in a literary or evocative fashion so that it is designed to create emotional reaction by use of color, subject, and possibly, accompanying text. Princeton area galleries have coincidentally filled their walls with various realistic modes. Oils, pastels, watercolors and sculpture restate the landscape, near and far, depict flowers, edibles and people employing different technical and conceptual approaches.

At Gallery of Fine Art. Realistic watercolor landscape is one of the most demanding forms of traditional paintings. The technical problems of the medium combined with its attractiveness to Sunday painters make avoiding the cliché more difficult than in other media. David Bareford in his collection of New England landscapes has maintained his subject in a faithful manner while using his paint freshly and confidently.

The results are a pleasing record of boats, architectural landscapes and waterfront vistas. While the subjects are rendered in a realistic manner, there is a sub-patterning of brushwork and color forming new motifs and spatial relationships within the structure of the familiar. Color is fresh and well applied, utilizing tonal effects and brushwork to complement the pleasing Massachusetts vistas.

At Gallery 100. Traditional painting in the form of Peter Cook portraits and landscapes are a continuing feature in the Princeton art panorama. There are, however, some subtle changes in the Maine landscapes that are associated with Mr. Cook.

New elements of light and color are present in recent works. While still maintaining old forms, there is a visual life and excitement in the brighter, lighter works that seem to mark a change in direction.

At the Loft. Three realists present their works in many media. Sculptor Campbell Paxton retells Greek myths in small, competent bronze works. Drawing exclusively from the classics, his figures are creatively rendered. Interesting textural and surface effects are created by contrasts in patina while pattern is effectively developed to interact with the surfaces.

Mary Sheehan creates delicate realistic drawings in pencil and pastel. A highly romantic approach adds a great deal of sugar to the essence of the work but her fine technique and careful renderings are noteworthy. Agnes Egan employs realism in both a narrative and descriptive manner. Small figurative paintings have a great deal to say about their subject as well as exhibiting the technical skill of the painter. Landscapes of the Jersey shore, and architecture studies capture their subjects effectively.

At Susuki. The literary value of watercolor paintings by Rex Goreleigh has made his work significant. A series of studies, focusing on the migrant workers in the state records daily living experience, life style and some careful documentation of faces. The medium is used in a straightforward manner, with the content dominating the effect of the works.

A few still lifes and landscapes are included in this collection. Most recent work

Being physically fit can mean different things to different people. There are also a variety of expressions which health authorities used to define physical fitness. But most agree that to be in topnotch condition means that all parts of your body are in good shape and capable of working efficiently. You can work hard without becoming excessively tired, and can recover from fatigue quickly. You are reasonably skilled in certain movements requiring coordination and strength—you are good at some form of athletics! If this definition fits you, then you are probably in good physical condition.

For the patient's comfort, FORER PHARMACY, 160 Witherspoon sells or rents complete sickroom supplies. Wheel chairs, walkers, canes and crutches are all available. Free delivery service. Baby needs, cosmetics and sundries await you at FORER PHARMACY. Phone 921-7287.

in oils employs a heavy impasto technique.

At the Artisan. A varied collection of prints, painting, ceramics and drawing are on display at the Artisan. Featured is a collection of hand-thrown stoneware by South African potter Valja Roseman. Deep earth tones predominate in subtle glazes. Sculptural contrasts and textures that complement make this collection interesting. Although the pottery is designed to be functional, it has a strong visual presence beyond its usefulness.

At the Present Day Club. The Present Day Club is featuring art work by Princeton Regional School children. The variety of media, style and levels of sophistication make viewing a joyous, visually exciting and often artistically stimulating experience. The spontaneity of reaction and pleasure reflected in the expression of many modes create a series of pleasurable visual vibrations. Needlework, painting, design experiments and printmaking are among many means of expression on display. Clever, sophisticated work by older students is accompanied by uncomplicated but talented expression of many younger Princeton artists. Reflected and communicated pleasure make this the happiest viewing experience in town.

Mrs. Harold Staras, of 111 Braeburn Drive, will be named an "Ima," or honorary Mother of Hadassah, at a luncheon in the Princeton Jewish Center on Thursday, December 5, at 11:30. Mrs. Staras is a past president of Hadassah who has worked steadily in the cause of Israel. She is also currently president of the Jewish Center of Princeton, culminating 18 years of contributions to the Jewish community. During this time, she has made four trips to Israel, including a year-long stay with her husband, an engineer with RCA Research Laboratories, to enable them both to teach in the Technion-Israel Institute of Technology. Mrs. Staras taught English.

Funds raised from the luncheon will be sent to Youth Aliyah, an Israeli organization serving displaced and disturbed youth.

Requests for reserved seats should be accompanied by a check for $25 from those who wish to be sponsors, or for $12.50 from contributors. Checks should be made out to

SPORTS FANS!

I
YOU
KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Young football fans may not know--and older fans may have forgotten--that in the old days of football, unlike today, the passer on a team was NOT the quarterback--Before the T formation became popular, the passing was almost always done by a halfback...In fact on many teams, the quarterback never ran or even handled the ball...They were used only as blockers...That seems strange today, doesn't it.

One of the most unusual boxing matches in history was held in Pueblo, Colorado in 1901. This one fight wound up having three completely different decisions!...It was between the famous Abe Attell and George Dixon...After the fight, the referee announced the decision to Dixon...The crowd booed so he changed it to a draw...The crowd booed again and so he awarded the decision to Attell...That's the only boxing match in history in which the referee announced three different results.

Ever wonder what were the most fumbles by one team in one football game?...The major college record was set in a game between Florida State and Wichita State in 1969 when Wichita State fumbled 17 times!

I bet you didn't know...that insurance is our only business. It pays to deal with specialists.

FOUNTAIN HEAD OF TROUBLE: Quarterback Greg Adams, hit by Yale end Brian Ameche (91) throws off-balance pitchoul to Walt Snickenberger (43). Bell bounded toward Tiger goal line, was recovered 16 yards away and Elis scored in two plays, raising final score to 19-6.

Princeton's 1974 football team has a choice of considerable proportions confronting it as it prepares to close the books on the current season: it can either end its career on the upbeat by raising its final mark to 4-4-1 on the strength of a victory over an opponent that has beaten it every year since 1969, or it can walk slowly into the dusk with the knowledge that a bright beginning was more than offset by five straight defeats to close out the campaign.

Cornell, which decimated the Tigers at Ithaca a year ago, holding them to 19 yards rushing and two Scott Morrison field goals, has had its own problems since then. so many, in fact, that Coach Jack Musick's teams have beaten only Columbia among all their Ivy opponents since that early October day in 1973. Despite its difficulties, the Red will not be ripe for the picking, but it there is motivation for a team that hopes 1974 will be the foundation for a return next year to the league's first division, it is all on Princeton's doorstep this weekend. Game-time in Palmer Stadium will be 1:30.

QUICK LOOK AT CORNELL

OFFENSE: Built around quarterback Kevin Sigler's passing and Dan Malone's running. Has been inconsistent, Red winning only from Columbia

DEFENSE: Season-long problems have resulted in average of three touchdowns allowed per Ivy game

CHIEF ASSET: Sigler's passing, with completion average of better than 55%

CHIEF PROBLEM: Cornell has lost winning image since Ed Marinaro went to Minnesota Vikings. Red has won only three Ivy games in two years.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Power I

Cornell began the season with hopes of attaining the role of contender, topped Colgate and Lehigh in its first two games, and had a chance to win from Penn before settling for an unusual 28-all tie. But the defensive problems reflected by that score were never settled, Harvard and Yale ran up 63 points on successive Saturdays, and Cornell has proved superior only to winless Columbia.

Loss of running back Don Fanelli in mid-season for the second year in a row was a major setback for the Red. The emergence of inexperienced Kevin Sigler as a good quarterback in his senior year proved a major asset, but only he and classmate Dan Malone, a fine is ironic, in a sense, that Dartmouth, which the Tigers clearly dominated despite the one-touchdown difference between them, will finish ahead of the Orange and Black, but the Green topped Brown, where Princeton did not, and has a good chance to top Penn, which also edged the Princetonians.

The Tigers' offensive line has been beset by injuries, with Kevin Fox, the sophomore tackle, out with a broken leg, and guards Hank Healey and Joe Zajac and center Warren Correll all sidelined during major portions of the Harvard and Yale games. It should, however, be able to handle the Cornell defense adequately, giving Walt Snickenberger at least a long-range shot at some of the records within his reach.

Held to 69 yards by Yale's rugged defense, Snick needs more than is likely to come his way to surpass the marks set by Hank Bjorklund. He must chalk up 204 to top Bjorklund's one-season record of 1,081 and

PORSCHE'75

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE.

A new 1975 Porsche can be many things. It can be a Carrera (on top) with all the racing blood you could ask for in a high-performance sportscar. Or a 911S with Targa styling (the middle one) which creates more excitement parked than most cars do in fourth gear. Or it could be a mid-engined 914 (the bottom one), a two-seater Porsche that combines everything you'd like in a sportscar with everything you thought you had to give up (like 27 mpg*). But there is one thing these Porsches will never be--and that's like any car you've ever known. They are Porsches. With 25 years of Porsche engineering and design behind them. And for that, there is no substitute.

14 for the one-season record in this department. National Football League scouts will be taking a look at Snickenberger in his final Princeton appearance. He has indicated an interest in getting a shot at a professional career, after he closes out his collegiate activity in the East-West game in late December.

MISTAKES AGAIN COSTLY

In 19-6 Loss to Yale. Both teams were guilty of errors that allowed the opposition to score, but Yale was powerful enough to overcome its mistakes, and Princeton was not. The two major misplays debited to Princeton—an underthrown pass by Beible that was picked off for an interception and a wild pitchout by reserve quarterback Greg Adams that was recovered by the Blue—both set up Yale touchdowns. On the other hand, Yale was guilty of one pass lost through an interception and two miserable punts, but gave up only a pair of field goals. So dominant was the Blue's fine running game (387 yards, almost certainly a Yale high against the Tigers) that they did not suffer from a fourth grievous error—a fumble in the end zone that safety Ed Sheridan pounced on for a touchback.

Following a scoreless first quarter, featured by some superb coffin corner punting by sophomore Mike Stein, Princeton achieved what none of Yale's seven other opponents had this season—scoring first. An interception by linebacker Steve Lang put the ball on the home team 21, from where the Tigers drove inside the three before Yale's adamant defense dictated a fourth-down try for a field goal Morrison converted.

It was not until better than 27 minutes of the first half had gone that Yale caught up, driving 75 yards in 13 plays for its first TD. Two downs after the ensuing kickoff, however, Beible's underthrown pass went right into the hands of the Yale safetyman and when Captain Rudy Green climaxed a 30-yard drive by breaking three tackles on a 16-yard burst around the right flank, the Tigers were down 13-3 at the intermission.

Field Goal Narrows Gap. A poor center snap forcing a hurried punt that went just three yards gave Princeton the ball on the Eli midway through the third period, and when Yale yielded no more than 11 yards, Morrison booted his second field goal—and second 41-yarder of the season. He has, more than incidentally, 14 to his credit over two years and 10 games left in which to break Charlie Gogolak's career record of 27.

The Tigers stayed very much within upset distance when Yale's 80-yard drive after the kickoff ended fruitlessly because sophomore back Don Gesicki fumbled on a dive into the end zone. But after moving the ball to the Princeton 44, Adams threw a wild pitchout toward Snickenberger while being tackled.

The ball bounded 28 yards toward the Princeton end zone before Yale recovered, and the Elis erased the final 16 in just two plays. That raised the margin to 19-6, and eliminated virtually all likelihood of forestalling Yale's eighth straight victory over the Tigers.

They did have one more chance to score, following a blocked punt which came into their possession on their own 44. Adams connected on a pair of long passes that set up a first down on the Eli 10. So in awe of Yale's defense against rushing were the Tigers at this point that they never once gave the ball to Snickenberger, who is nationally ranked in both yards gained and points scored. Instead, Adams tried four passes, all were incomplete, and Yale took over to run out the clock.

A Gloomy Look Ahead. You get a good idea of how solid Yale football is when you add

Palmer Stadium Is 60

A representative of each of the Princeton classes which have played football in Palmer Stadium since it was built in 1914 will be present at Saturday's Cornell-Princeton football game. They will sit together in Section 5 after attending luncheon in their honor in Jadwin Gymnasium.

Dedicated on October 24, 1914, (as Princeton defeated Dartmouth, 16 to 12) the Stadium was formally presented to Princeton on November 13 of that year by the late Edgar Palmer '03. It was given in memory of his father, Stephen S. Palmer, and accepted for Princeton by President John G. Hibben and Dean Howard McClenahan.

While many noteworthy athletic events have been staged in the Stadium over the course of six decades, ranging from memorable football games to Invitation Track Meets marked by world records, two oddities also stand out in memory. On a snowy day in November, 1935, a 12th man lined up with Dartmouth for one play before he was demoted to the sidelines, while 15 years later, Dartmouth played here in a hurricane which produced winds close to 100 miles an hour.

to this eighth in a row over the Tigers and the Elis' first-place, undefeated status the fact that the Bulldog freshmen handled their Princeton counterparts without undue difficulty. Until losing Saturday, 19 to 13, the Tiger cubs had generally looked impressive while winning four straight after an opening loss to Columbia.

While it is true that Yale loses far more by graduation than does Princeton, good holdover material and a strong freshman team should continue to make the Elis the team to beat next year, too. The astonishing paradox is that whereas Yale athletic ability has peeled off markedly in virtually every other sport, the Elis can pull Princeton's cork on the gridiron with relentless monotony.

FINAL GAME SATURDAY

For West Windsor Eleven. The West Windsor football team will complete its first varsity season Saturday when it plays winless Allentown High School at Allentown. Kickoff is at 1:30.

Allentown, forced to rely heavily on sophomores because of injuries, has lost all eight of its games this season and has now dropped 18 in a row over a three-year period.

West Windsor won its second last week when it defeated the Bridgewater-Raritan East junior varsity, 14-0. Daryl MacPherson, who had been a doubtful starter for the Pirates at quarterback because of a back injury, scored one touchdown from four yards out, while Tom Murphy scored the other six-pointer on a three-yard run.

Murphy was the leading ground-gainer with 123 yards in 13 carries. Bill Schroeder converted both extra points.

HUN WINS FINALE

For 5-3 Football Record. Winner only once last year, the Hun football team turned it around this season, defeating Admiral Farragut Saturday in its final game, 43-12, to finish with a 5-3 record.

Hun saved its most productive effort until the last, scoring twice in each of the first three periods. It was fitting also that Terry McEwen, the sensational junior running back from Princeton, should account for half of Hun's six touchdowns.

Terry scored on runs of 13, 3 and 25 yards to finish with 13 TDs. He rushed for 179 yards in 29 carries. Season totals give the quick and elusive McEwen 80 points (including a two-point conversion run) and 1,034 yards in 121 carries. Every time Terry carried the ball he averaged an 8.5 yard advance.

Also scoring for Hun against the winless Future Admirals were Jack Porcelli on a 17-yard pass from quarterback John Cirelli; fullback Bruce LiSoocy on an 18-yard run and linebacker Kevin Rafalski who returned an intercepted pass 42 yards. Both Farragut scores came in the final period.

"It was a nice, easy win," said Hun coach Dave Leete, who described the season just ended as "very rewarding." "We lost a couple of games we shouldn't have," he added, referring to the 21-14 loss to St. Andrews and the 14-13 edging by Pingry. In both games, Hun at one time enjoyed a two-touchdown lead but couldn't hold it. Only in the 26-7 loss to Blair was Hun outplayed, Leete said.

Line Losses Heavy. Two from Hun's starting backfield will return, McEwen and Ernie Barbiero, but the loss in the starting line will be heavy: only tackle Jack Porcelli returns. Among those graduating are Ron Lovering, center and team captain; Kelvin Maxi, Jeff Petrone, Anthony DePastina, Scott Barton and ends Jeff Fischer, Marty Galullo, and Rafalski.

Joining McEwen and Barbiero in the backfield next year, the latter a transfer student from Ewing who was a standout as Hun's extra point kicker this year, will be reserve quarterback Nick Brady and Tim Teel, a running back.

They will be a good nucleus in the backfield, Leete agreed, "but I'm going to need some linemen. I'll worry about that next year," he said. His feeling was understandable.

Basketball practice began Friday and Leete, without being able to catch his breath, is Hun's basketball coach.

PHS Ends Losing Streak with 20-0 Win over Notre Dame High; Game against Trenton Saturday Offers Chance for 4-5 Season

"Trenton will be much tougher," said Princeton High coach Jim Beachell after he watched his team break a five-game losing streak Saturday by stopping winless Notre Dame, 20-0.

"We played a bad team. We won, but we didn't look good."

Playing without its candidate for all-county end, Steve Tomlinson, PHS, was as good as it had to be and the 20 points it rung up against the Irish raised the total scored by the opposition to 318, topping the previous high of 314 allowed by the 1968 Trenton High team.

Trenton is no such patay this year. The Tornadoes used a strong defensive effort last week to stop Ewing, 15-6, (the losers scored in the last 51 seconds), to even their record at 4-4.

Could He Close to .500. Since Trenton coach Mark Bailey installed Bruce Evans at quarterback, the Tornadoes have been tough to beat. Last year, PHS defeated Trenton, 27-3, the last victory for Beachell's predecessor, Dick Wood. A victory for PHS would leave it one short of the .500 mark with a 4-5 record. The game will be played at the PHS field, starting at 11.

PHS finally got moving against Notre Dame in the middle of the second period after Dan Schultman returned a punt to the Irish 42. Tony Strong, Pete Watson and Alex Kinnon moved the ball to the 20 and the drive was kept alive by a pass interference violation by ND that gave the Little Tigers a first down on the 10.

After a pass to Dave Lacey misfired, Strong ran off tackle for the TD with 6:12 left in the half. Less than five minutes later, PHS scored again.

Tackle Ray Brower broke through and smothered an attempted punt by ND kicker Mark Stephan. Before the ball dropped to the turf, Pete Barnett scooped it up and ran it over from 28 yards out. It was Barnett's third defensive score of the year. Watson then passed to Dave Lion for the two point conversion.

Madden Intercepts. In the final period, ND quarterback George Mattonelli, who was harassed by the PHS defensive unit all day, had one of his passes picked off by John Madden. Junior Paul Soderman carried to the 20 for a 33-yard gain-Princeton's longest on the ground-and Watson then got the final 30 when he passed to Madden in the end zone. Three PHS receivers were there waiting for the ball against a lone ND defender.

In addition to Tomlinson, who is out for the season with "mono," three other starters were sidelined. Co-captain Jeff Benfer is out with a pinched nerve in the neck and Beachell said that he doubted he would play in the final game against Trenton; John Costas missed his second game because of a burn injury and burly tackle Mike Michael was ill. Center Nate Harris was lost three games ago with a shoulder injury.

Tommy Thomas and Robbie McPherson were benched by Beachell for missing practice sessions. "We could have run all over them with Tommy in there," said Beachell.

Beachell singled out Robert Wood for an "exceptional game" as a linebacker. Madden at defensive safety, Dave Lacey at end and Soderman for his running. A lot of reserves are playing more, as Beachell seeks to fill the holes created by injuries and give some of those returning next year more playing time.

These include Dave Seagers, a fullback who also centers the ball on all punts, Jim O'Grady and Tony Cirulla.

"Injuries have made quite a lot of difference," commented Beachell. "Ewing hurt us in the second game. We lost Thomas and Ziolkowski (fullback Eric Ziolkowski) and we lost our speed. Then we started to lose our linemen when we got our backs back."

Beachell is hoping he can keep his squad patched up long enough to defeat Trenton and end his first year as a winner.

LOS ANGELES	70¢	$1.40	$3.55
CHICAGO	50¢	$1.10	$2.40
MIAMI	65¢	$1.20	$2.65

Just think. By asking an operator's assistance, a three-minute weekend call to L.A. will be twice as much as if you dialed it yourself. And calling person-to-person is over five times more costly. For example:

You want to say "Happy Birthday" to Aunt Mary in Los Angeles, but you can't see spending the person-to-person premium rate. And you don't want to call collect, or charge it, or make it a third number billed call, or a coin phone call (all of which cost extra because they involve an operator). So, you take the least expensive option of all: get the area code from the front of your phone book and dial Aunt Mary yourself.

Remember, the next time you're calling people dear and far, look over all your options. Then make the call that makes the most sense to you.

We want you to get the most out of your phone service.

Tiger Sextet to Open with St. Nicks Tuesday; Hopes High for More of Last Year's Good Play

Princeton's hockey team will open its season Tuesday night at 7:30 in Baker Rink with an exhibition game against the St. Nicks. In an unprecedented switch in scheduling policy, the Tigers will then play their first November Ivy League game when they travel to Hanover the following Saturday to face Dartmouth.

Absence of a tested goalie on Coach Jack Semler's squad is the principal factor in pre-season evaluation of its strength. The Tigers have high hopes of improving on last year's dramatic turnaround, when they defeated such teams as Brown, Dartmouth and Cornell on the way to a 9-14-1 season. The winter before, they had been 5-and-18.

It won't be easy for Semler's skaters to better last year's record. While 14 of the tigers' 19 lettermen will be back on the ice this season, one of the graduates, goaltender Phil Robinson, will be extremely difficult to replace.

Robinson started all but one game a year ago and earned second team All-Ivy honors. The competition for his position is coming from last year's back-up goalie, Robin Rollefstad (Medicine Hat, Alberta), sophomore Mike O'Leary (Brookline, Mass.), sophomore Bob MacFarlane (Mississauga, Ontario) and junior Colin Simmons (Lethbridge, Alberta).

Good Blue Line Strength. The success of the goaltending cluding a strong contingent from defending champion Oklahoma University.

Ticket applications for the tournament can be obtained by writing to NCAA Wrestling Tickets, P.O. Box 71, Princeton University.

In view of the anticipated demand, Princeton assistant coach Chet Dalgewicz, who is serving as the director of the tournament, and head coach John Johnston, who is the assistant director, have set February 12 as the first closing date for ticket allotments.

Orders covering all six sessions of the tourney, received before that date, will be given first priority. Orders for five sessions will be next, then four, three, two and finally orders for one session. After February 12, ticket orders will be filled as they are received, with no consideration given to the number of sessions involved.

All sessions are $5 each, but a special tournament ticket can be purchased for $25. There will be afternoon and evening sessions on all three days (Thursday, Friday and Saturday). The consolation will depend upon the play of a veteran defense. Last year's entire defense returns, led by Paul Dionne (Montreal, Quebec), who joined Robinson on the second All-Ivy squad as a sophomore. Dionne was expected to team with Roy Hopper (Toronto, Ontario) but Hopper broke his ankle the week prior to the start of practice and will be sidelined for the first part of the season. Senior Jim Damberger (Lethbridge, Alberta) pairs with Al Hosner (Morrisville, Pa.), who led the defense five goals in his first varsity campaign.

There are gaps to fill on offense, especially the one created by the end of Walt Snuckenberger's eligibility. Junior Craig Dahl (International Falls, Minn.) may prove the key to the Tiger attack.

The junior wing produced 12 goals in 18 games before withdrawing for academic reasons last year. Dahl will be back, readmitted in August, and could be the man to take up the slack left by Snuckenberger's departure.

If not, most of the scoring punch will come from Mark Stuckey (Exeter, N.H.) and elusive Gary O'Meara (Montreal, Quebec), who finished one-two pointmaking in 1973-74. Mike Bascom (Concord, Calif.), who paced the Tiger scorers two years ago returns, along with Captain Brad Richards (Minneapolis, Minn.) and Corky Powers (Springfield, Mass.) while Rick Friesz (Medicine Hat, Alberta) and Dunc Fisher (Regina, Sask.) round out the cast of veteran forwards.

favorite is regally wrapped in glittering gold-monogrammed foil. Bewitching, romantic and enduring, a concentrated fragrance that lingers,
Royal Secret is a marvelous mixture that blooms with body
warmth.
